No Let Up On Criticism Of Old Age Pension Bill

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is asking poor people to help those who are even poorer in its bill amending the Old Age Security Act, the Commons was told Friday.

"There is nothing in these proposals which can be taken to mean that the rich will be asked to pay to help the poor," said David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North).

Mr. Orlikow and other members of his party continued to heap criticism of the government proposal to freeze the basic old-age pension at $80 monthly starting Jan. 1.

That is only 42 cents more a month than the basic pension now paid. In the future, there will be no cost-of-living benefits to be added as before.

If the bill is not approved, the basic pension would rise to $81.17 starting Jan. 1.

The bill also would increase supplementary benefits now paid to pensioners with little or no income. Supplements would be raised to $55 monthly from $31.85 for single persons and $95 from $68.66 for couples.

The Commons Monday will turn to debate on Finance Minister Edgar Benson's budget brought down Thursday. It returns to the old-age bill Wednesday.

Mr. Orlikow said many of the pensioners who will get only the $80 are those with small private pensions or modest savings.

He said he was convinced that Canada could afford to pay old-age pensions of $150 monthly. Those who didn't need this much would pay it back in income tax.

Heath Macquarrie (PC—Hillsborough) said pensioners would have to be grateful for small mercies.

He said elderly people have been used in the past as pawns in elections and treated with insensitivity by governments.

They were entitled to a better deal than the one now proposed.

Murray McBride (L—Lanark-Renfrew-Carleton) defended the bill, saying the government had to balance its concern for the poor with monetary limitations.

No matter what was proposed, there would be a grey area in which some would be displeased.

SEEN AS TEMPTATION

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) said the bill would tempt old-age pensioners to cheat in order to become eligible for supplementary benefits.

He said that some 510,000 old-age pensioners earning between $1,700 and $4,000 annually would want more than the 42-cent increase proposed by the government.

The government was applying a means test and thus penalizing those who saved a little money for their retirement.

John Gilbert (NDP—Toronto Broadview) said the bill would only redistribute poverty.

A single pensioner under the bill would receive $1,545 after taxes, well below the $1,944 that the Senate poverty committee deemed to be the poverty line, said the Toronto MP.

COLDSTREAM YOUTH STABBED SEARCH HAMPERED BY SNOW

VERNON—Steady snow falling early today hampered RCMP officers in the Okanagan as they investigated the stabbing death of David John Stevens, 18, of Coldstream.

Police used a tracking dog late Friday night in attempts to locate a person wanted for questioning after Stevens' body was found lying in a pool of blood in an office here.

A police spokesman said Stevens apparently died from several stab wounds and a blow to the head. Footprints were found in the snow but were lost on a busy street.

Officers from several Okanagan RCMP detachments are assisting Vernon police in the investigation.

Massive Hunt For 3 Bandits

LONDON (AP) — Britain's air and sea ports were on maximum alert and a massive hunt was under way by Scotland Yard today for three masked bandits who stole £106,000 (about $285,000) worth of gold and diamonds from an airline truck in the middle of London Friday night.

A spokesman for KLM Royal Dutch Airlines said he believes it is the biggest robbery ever staged against his company. He said the gold bullion and diamonds were being shipped by several clients in the London area and were on their way to Heathrow Airport for shipment to several clients in Amsterdam.

"It must have been a brilliantly-planned operation, and it worked perfectly," he said. "Our vans always take different routes. We are very hot on security."

The thing that puzzled Scotland Yard most was how the robbers found out that the KLM truck was carrying such a valuable load. The means and times of moving such a cargo are normally closely-guarded secrets.

Detectives also were handicapped by inadequate descriptions of the bandits. The robbery took place in the middle of the rush hour Friday and was over too quickly for the details to register with witnesses.

CARRIED SHOTGUN

The three robbers, wielding a sawed-off shotgun and a revolver, struck underground—in the Piccadilly highway underpass beneath Hyde Park Corner, just outside the back wall of Buckingham Palace.

The robbery "went off like clockwork at a time when the road was packed with homebound commuters."

Police said they believe the bandits used two vehicles, a car and a panel truck.

Abductors In High Spirits During Flight Into Exile

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — The kidnappers of British diplomat James Richard Cross were "happy and in high spirits" during their flight into exile Thursday night.

A member of the crew of the 135-passenger plane, said Captain Ronald Lamont, radio operator on the Yukon, "They didn't seem unworried, unhappy, or uncertain about what they were doing."

Captain Lamont described the flight in a copyright interview with Ken MacGray, aviation writer for The Record.

Seven Seized In Dublin

DUBLIN (AP) — Detectives seized seven persons in a raid on a house near the Dublin airport today, only hours after the Irish government invoked emergency powers to deal with what it called a "secret armed conspiracy."

Prime Minister Jack Lynch announced Friday that the government had invoked part 2 of the 1940 Offences Against the State Act, which gives police the power to intern any citizen without trial, and that detention centres were being prepared.

He said he was acting because police believed a conspiracy was planning to kidnap leading citizens and to attempt bank robberies likely to involve murder.

His action brought an outcry today from opposition politicians, newspapers and the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA). Irish rightists, however, welcomed the move.

The Irish Independent, a middle-of-the-road newspaper, accused the government of unleashing "a modern Frankenstein."

Eddie McAtter, president of the Nationalist party in Northern Ireland, said of Britain, said: "Dear God, have they gone back to this? Only near-insurrection could justify such destruction of civil rights."

AFTER FOUR DAYS DEATH TOLL 33

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eleven persons died on Canadian roads Friday, the fourth day of Safe Driving Week, bringing the total so far to 33.

Last year's toll after four days was 27.

British Columbia led in fatalities with four, followed by Ontario with three and Quebec with two.

Alberta and Saskatchewan each had one fatality.

All Atlantic provinces and Manitoba were free of traffic deaths.

Quake Shakes Northern Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — An earthquake shook northern Chile Friday, opening cracks in some buildings. Police said no serious damage or injuries were reported.

In Tocopilla, a coastal city 800 miles north of Santiago, the tremor registered an intensity of six on a 12-point international scale.

Fire Destroys Customs Post

BELFAST (AP) — Fire destroyed a wooden British customs post early today on the border with the Irish republic, 45 miles west of Belfast. Authorities said they suspected arson, a favorite tactic of both Roman Catholic and Protestant radicals in Northern Ireland.

Thanks Friends, Strangers Before Heading For Home

MONTREAL (CP) — James (Jasper) Cross, smiling but looking pale and tired, flew from Montreal International Airport to London today to be reunited with his wife who has not seen him since his terrorist kidnapping two months ago.

In an airport statement before his departure, the British trade commissioner said he hoped to resume a "normal family life."

He thanked friends and strangers in Canada who had sent messages to his wife Barbara during his 60 days of captivity in a suburban Montreal house.

The 49-year-old envoy boarded a Canadian Forces Boeing 707 immediately after delivering his statement and answering reporters' questions in a packed airport lounge.

The plane took off at 9:08 a.m. EST and was scheduled to land at Heathrow Airport in London about 9 p.m. After that Mr. Cross is scheduled to spend a secluded weekend in the English countryside with his wife.

Wearing a grey suit and walking briskly as he came into the airport lounge, Mr. Cross told reporters he did not know if he would be coming back to Canada. He has been senior trade commissioner here for three years and planned to have talks with the British government on his future duties.

He talked about the last dramatic day of his captivity, after police had staked out the suburban Montreal North duplex where he was held. That was Wednesday, 59 days after he had been forced at gunpoint from his downtown home Oct. 5.

"They told me at 10 p.m. Wednesday that police knew where I was. The power went out around 2 a.m. (Thursday)."

"They got me up, took me into the corridor and handcuffed me to a door knob. I spent a rather uncomfortable night. Then nothing much happened until the lawyer arrived about 10 a.m. Thursday."

The lawyer set in motion negotiations that led to the release of Mr. Cross in exchange for safe passage to Cuba for seven persons—four men, two of their wives and a two-year-old daughter.

Of those who held him captive, Mr. Cross said: "I'm glad they're out of the country and away from me."

The British trade commissioner was held in the custody of the acting Cuban consul in Montreal from Thursday afternoon until the plane carrying the group of seven landed at Havana early Friday.

His flight to London came a day after a medical examination and rest in a Montreal hospital.

Lost 22 Pounds Cooped Up

Mr. Cross, fed a starchy diet with hardly any meat or fish, lost 22 pounds while he was cooped up in a windowless room for 60 days. But his doctor pronounced him 100-per-cent fit physically and mentally before releasing him for the flight home.

The British envoy weighed about 190 pounds before his abduction, witnessed by his wife who left Montreal for Bern, Switzerland, Nov. 6 to stay with friends and who is due to fly to London today.

Mr. Cross said his captors "treated me with courtesy."

"I was never physically mistreated," he said.

Asked if he ever talked with his abductors, who claim to belong to the violently-separatist and now-outlawed Front de Liberation du Quebec, he replied:

"They were obviously convinced and fervent revolutionaries."

"I had a certain amount of political discussions with them during the first two weeks, but after Mr. Laporte's death I didn't feel much like talking with them."

KIDNAPPED 5 DAYS LATER

Pierre Laporte, also 49, became North America's second political kidnapping when he was whisked away at gunpoint from his suburban St. Lambert home just five days after the Cross abduction.

He said in French: "I refer to the Laporte family. I never met Mr. Laporte, but in the week when we were both prisoners I felt closer to him than a brother."

"I would like to express to Mme. Laporte and her family my deepest and most sincere condolences."

"Why Mr. Laporte is dead and I am alive, I do not know. I want to pay tribute to this courageous man and to express the conviction that this sacrifice was not in vain."

He began his airport message in English, saying:

"It's a wonderful sense of relief to be back in the normal world."

"If there is one thing that this experience has given me it's a sense of appreciation of the ordinary simple things of life, and mostly the ability to live with one's family and friends and to breathe fresh air."

Airborne S. Vietnam Troops Kill 36 Cong Near Saigon

SAIGON (CP) — Helicopter-borne South Vietnamese troops killed 3 Viet Cong in a battle 15 miles from Saigon, government spokesmen said today. Simultaneously, 2,500 South Vietnamese marines and rangers launched a new offensive drive in southern Cambodia.

In the first hours of the new sweep, the marines reported killing 15 Communist soldiers in fighting in the Parrot's Beak section of South Vietnam, which extends into Cambodia about 45 miles southeast of Phnom Penh. Saigon headquarters said the marines suffered three killed and seven wounded.

The new operation was launched by South Vietnamese troops already in Cambodia. It involved about one-fourth of the 10,000 South Vietnamese troops who are there.

In the fighting close to Saigon, a South Vietnamese unit claimed to have killed an assistant Viet Cong battalion commander. It also reported destroying three camps, several sampans and some Communist rice. South Vietnamese casualties were listed as two killed and three wounded.

U.S. Planes Flying Observation Flights Over Egypt Says Paper

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Greek-Cypriot newspaper said today that United States planes are flying observations missions over Egypt from British bases in Cyprus. A spokesman for the British High Commission and a spokesman for the British Middle East command headquarters refused to comment on the report.

The pro-government news paper Philoklefteros in Nicosia said the U.S. started using the base after the Greek, Turkish and Italian governments rejected U.S. requests to use installations on their territories for similar missions.

Archbishop Makarios, the president of Cyprus, who is pursuing a policy of non-alignment, has stated repeatedly that he will never permit British bases in Cyprus to be used against friendly Arab states.

But British sources say that their installations on Cyprus are sovereign territory over which the Cyprus government has no jurisdiction.

In Cairo, Egypt charged Friday that U.S. reconnaissance flights over the Suez canal zone were an "aggressive act."

Sources in Washington have said the flights were stopped Nov. 10 and the Egyptian government was informed that the U.S. had no intention of resuming them.

'Government For Quebec' Bennett Terms Budget

The federal budget proves that the federal government is "a government for Quebec, a regional, one-province government," Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Friday. "What budget?" was Mr. Bennett's first comment on the budget presented Thursday night by Finance Minister Benson. "What I noticed is that if he hadn't brought down his budget all the working people in Canada would be better off by three per cent." The budget extended the three per cent surtax on income for another year and made available a $150 million public works fund to all the provinces. "I don't know what it's all about," Mr. Bennett said of the loan fund. "We don't want to borrow any money from Ottawa." He said if Ottawa would make some "low-cost money" available to municipalities it would be fine with British Columbia.

W. A. C. BENNETT
... what budget?

Time is running out for British Columbia to work out the best way of using its land, Ray Williston, provincial Lands and Forests Minister, told the 61st Western Forestry Conference in Vancouver Friday. Mr. Williston said industry, government and the general public are each pressing special aims. "No matter from which directions representations come, there needs to be a greater degree of understanding than we now have," he said. "We must all recognize that the acceleration of change we are experiencing gives a strong indication that it will be in the 1970s the results must be accomplished. Much later than this decade may set us on an irreversible and possibly disastrous course."

Within months responsibility for the Small Loans Act and its enforcement will be under the jurisdiction of the department of consumer and corporate affairs, the National Association of Credit Unions was told Friday. Ron Basford, minister of the department, said the decision comes following recommendations of the Economic Council of Canada and the Canadian Consumer Council. The government would be proposing complete rewriting of this act and of the Interest Act.

Dr. Benjamin Spock said Friday that society's leaders must protect their domain against violence. But civil libertarians, he said, should never quit battling against arbitrary measures used to curb such violence. The 67-year-old pediatrician, and anti-war protester, in Ottawa to speak at a local high school, said his appearance in Canada now and in an earlier engagement in Calgary was "purely coincidental" to the government's invocation of the War Measures Act against Quebec terrorists in October. He was surprised how little protest there had been in Canada against proclamation of the act.

Stanley Knowles (NDP-Winnipeg North-Centre) looked slightly embarrassed in the Commons Friday as he seconded a Credit Union motion calling for a big hike in family allowance without any increases in taxes, the cost of living or any goods or services. Mr. Knowles was actually coming to the rescue of Henri Latulippe (Credit Union-Compton) who found himself as the lone representative of his party when his motion was called during the hour set aside for private members' business. If there was no seconder, he couldn't proceed. So Mr. Knowles offered his services.

The Sharon Tate murder trial faces a delay until after Christmas because of the mysterious disappearance of defence lawyer Vincent Bugliosi told reporters Friday. "I think the circumstances surrounding the disappearance of Mr. Hughes are ominous and give cause for great concern and alarm." But Bugliosi said he has no information yet on what happened to Hughes, who disappeared at a mountain resort during floods last weekend.

Robert Fischer of the United States retained his lead in the inter-zonal world chess tournament in Spain Friday. Fischer drew with Tudey Ujtumov of Mongolia in 44 moves to stay ahead of Efim Geller of the Soviet Union, who defeated fellow-countryman Vasily Smyslov in 79 moves. The draw left Fischer in first place with 12.5 points. Geller is second with 12 points. Duncan Sutcliffe of Vancouver defeated Wolfgang Uhlmann of East Germany with a French defence in 72 moves.

A Toronto club is raising money to build a house for Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, former archbishop of Montreal. The 67-year-old Roman Catholic leader, who renounced his position to work in Africa with the poor and the sick in Cameroon and the Congo, lives in 12-by-18-foot shack. From there he carries out the multi-million dollar work of his charitable foundations, refusing to use any of the donated money to improve his living conditions. So the 250 members of Toronto's Over-25s Singles Club have raised $4,000 and are aiming at $15,000 for the new quarters.

Winter, Entrenched In West Now Closes In On The East

Winter, entrenched in Western Canada for some time, now has closed in on the East, eliminating the relatively balmy temperatures of Grey Cup time at Toronto and bringing with it snow.

The white stuff, which gave most of southern Ontario its first real coating Friday, appeared due to stay with forecasts warning of colder weather and more snow to come.

And across most of Canada snowmobilers indulged in their vehicles as ideal conditions for their point of view—looked likely to last.

Fredericton was hardest hit in the Maritimes as an early winter storm brought heavy snow and freezing rain to southern New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island Friday. Fredericton got 14 inches. Further snowfalls were predicted during the weekend.

Snow also was promised for Montreal and other parts of Quebec province, and for all parts of Ontario today and Sunday.

In western Manitoba, winds with gusts between 35 and 40 miles an hour made visibility poor in blowing snow although precipitation was light. Lows in the Winnipeg area were around zero overnight, getting up to between five and 10 today.

The rest of the Prairies shivered in icy blasts. In Saskatchewan, winds of up to 37 miles an hour produced a wind chill of about 50 below zero in most spots with visibility varying between one and one-half mile. Regina expected 15 below overnight and Swift Current 20 below.

Prince George in central B.C. was 38 below. An intense Pacific storm moving on to the coast was expected to bring snow over most of the province today, along with milder temperatures.

Warm Arrival Awaits Cross In London

LONDON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Sharp of Canada and other officials from the Canadian and British governments were preparing today to give James (Jasper) Cross a warm welcome on his arrival in London after two months of captivity in Quebec.

Sharp has been attending a meeting of NATO ministers in Brussels. Schedule to be with him tonight at Heathrow Airport when Cross arrives from Montreal was Charles Ritchie, Canadian high commissioner in London, who is to extend a personal message of welcome from the Queen to Cross.

John Davies, trade and industry minister, is the top British dignitary on the list of welcoming officials. Cross, kidnapped by Front de Liberation du Quebec terrorists Oct. 5 and released Thursday, has been British trade commissioner in Montreal and thus comes under the department headed by Davies.

Representatives of the foreign and Commonwealth office also were scheduled to join the reception party.

AROUND B.C. Prince George Wins Forest Warden Award

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — The top award for junior forest wardens has gone to the Prince George junior forest warden district for proficiency during the 1969-70 season. BANK LOSES $1,400 VANCOUVER (CP) — A bandit who said he had a gun stole more than $1,400 Friday morning from a downtown branch of the Bank of Montreal. He ordered a teller to place the money in a bag after he pointed to his left pocket and said there was a gun in it.

CHARGES LAID LANGLEY (CP) — Charges of breaking and entering were laid against three men Friday following two separate thefts at the Newlands golf course clubhouse here. Dennis James Molloy, 17, and Roman Leon Iwasuk, 22, both of Langley were charged with stealing liquor and cash on Nov. 3. Robert Alfred Alm, 18, of Surrey and Molloy are charged with stealing a small amount of cash Oct. 21. All three are to appear in court Tuesday.

STUDENTS ON COUNCILS? VANCOUVER (CP) — Bob Brummitt, president of the Vancouver City College student council, said Friday education minister Donald Brewster is considering appointing students to community college councils, the organization which governs each college. He said the minister asked him for the names of 10 nominees for the VCC council.

Abductors Face Embarrassment

HAVANA (Reuter) — The Cuban government has accepted the kidnappers of British diplomat James (Jasper) Cross, but observers here feel their presence may be regarded as an embarrassment.

The seven French-speaking Canadians—kidnappers and their families—landed here early Friday aboard a Canadian Forces jet from Montreal, looking calm and relaxed.

They were greeted by Cuban foreign ministry officials while Canadian Ambassador Kenneth Brown looked on. The Cuban press was allowed to photograph them, but foreign journalists were not permitted to approach the group, among them a little girl and a pregnant woman, which then was taken off into Havana in a small bus.

Observers said this exclusion of the international press might indicate embarrassment on the part of the government which during the last two years has been quietly persuading the majority of self-exiled revolutionaries to leave Cuba.

The official Communist newspaper Granma made a point of saying that the Canadian government had asked Cuba to accept the separatist group.

The transfer of these people to our country happened following a formal request from the Canadian government to which treated humanely. With cordial greetings, Eugen Beihl."

A West German embassy spokesman said the message was written by hand, in Spanish, in block letters.

But the signature appeared to be that of Beihl, the spokesman added.

The state of emergency imposed Friday grants police unlimited powers of search, arrest and detention. In the last 24 hours more than 150 arrests were made and informed sources said more could be expected today.

Guipuzcoa province was virtually paralysed Friday by strikes protesting the trial of the 16 Basques in Burgos, with stoppages affecting San Sebastian port as well as factories, stores and banks. The trial continues today.

NEARLY 100 PROJECTS VICTORIA (CP) — Laurie Wallace, chairman of the British Columbia centennial committee, said Friday the committee has approved nearly 100 centennial projects throughout B.C., valued at $1.5 million.

GO TO ALGERIA About a dozen Quebec separatists used to live here, but most of them left Cuba earlier this year by way of Algeria, informed sources said. The majority now are said to be living in French-speaking European countries.

As the "first free territory of America," as it calls itself, Cuba has little choice but to welcome political refugees from around the Western Hemisphere. They come from most American countries, especially Argentina and Brazil.

But their number, and the possible international complications they create, is becoming a burden for Cuba, which has enough problems of its own.

As soon as the four-engine Yukon aircraft came to a halt Friday in the light of television lamps, Ambassador Brown went aboard to meet the Canadian foreign ministry officials who travelled with the separatists.

The four kidnappers and their relatives then emerged quickly, without any waving or gestures. They looked as though they had left Canada in a hurry—casually dressed, the men unshaven and with only five suitcases among them.

Postcard Has Been Received From Abducted Eugen Beihl

MADRID (Reuter) — The West German embassy said today a postcard had been received from kidnapped consul Eugen Beihl saying he is a prisoner of the Basque separatist movement ETA.

The announcement was made as police hunted for Beihl following the imposition of a state of emergency on the predominantly-Basque province of Guipuzcoa and its capital, San Sebastian.

An embassy spokesman said the card, the first word received from Beihl since he was kidnapped four days ago, was postmarked in the Basque town of Victoria Friday and appears to be authentic. It was received this morning by the West German consul in Bilbao.

Beihl, honorary West German consul in San Sebastian, apparently was kidnapped as a hostage against the outcome of a military trial of 16 Basque nationalists, of whom face a possible penalty of death.

The message on the postcard said: "Dear Mr. Consul-General Dr. Schmitt: From my unknown location, I send you this sign of life. They tell me that you and the embassy must do what the ETA organization, which holds me prisoner, asks. I am being

Man Must Stand Trial For Murder

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—Francis Wayne Oliver, 21, charged jointly with the murder of a North Vancouver man at a marina near here the night of Oct. 24, was declared fit to stand trial Friday.

Oliver was charged after he was found following an air and sea search a week later in an inlet at the north end of Georgia Strait. Charged with him is Geoffrey Ronald Oram, 22, both of no fixed address.

Klaus Pruter, 32, was discovered shot to death on a dock 10 miles south of Nanaimo. Police believe he had come out of his 30-foot yacht to investigate some noises.

Both Oliver and Oram, members of the Vancouver Island motorcycle gang the 101 Knights, are due to appear in provincial court for a preliminary hearing Dec. 15.

BUILDERS' SKILLS WILL HELP OTHERS LEARN

Work is progressing on a number of projects in School District 23 (Kelowna), as these scenes indicate. Work is ahead of schedule at KLO Junior Secondary, left top and bottom, where 750 students and 25 teachers will occupy the $1.1 million building in March. Begun in July, the 68,000 square foot school will contain 24 classrooms. Building costs at KLO are a proximately $17 per square foot, compared with $20 per square foot if concrete were used. Meanwhile construction is continuing at Rutland Secondary, top right, where an 11-room addition will be constructed. At Quigley Elementary, lower right, four teaching areas are being added to the school. The school began operation Sept. 20. These schools are part of a $3,336,655 expansion program currently being undertaken by the school board. —(Courier photos).

WATER BOARD

Many Matters For Discussion

Feed lots in the Okanagan will now be treated the same as any other potential polluting industry, the Okanagan Basin Water Board has ruled.

The OBWB made its decision at the monthly meeting held in Vernon Thursday, following more than three months of fact-finding, after Kelowna director of operations E. F. Lawrence first brought the matter to the board in September.

Thursday's ruling means feed lot operators previously exempt under the Pollution Control Act, will now have to apply to pollution control for a permit.

During the OBWB's investigation of the matter a complete list of Okanagan feed lots was prepared by Dr. James Clapp, B.C. department of agriculture veterinarian in Vernon, and sent to pollution control and B. E. Marr, co-chairman of the Okanagan basin water study consultative board, responsible body under the four-year water study agreement.

The Okanagan Basin Water Board is in favor of the three regional districts in the Valley ruling on pollution control permits, but it still intends making individual recommendations to the pollution control branch.

MONITORING

It also wants to see established a well monitoring system which could be used both by scientists of the Okanagan water study and pollution control officials.

Pressing for the monitoring system, Central Okanagan Regional District representative W. J. C. Kane, told Thursday's meeting it would provide some sort of picture as to what is happening to water in the water tables.

He said the monitoring should be done at sites where pollution control permits had been issued. Secretary-manager Bill Par-chomchuk said some well monitoring had been done, but described the information as "a bit loose."

When told some wells are in isolated locations Mr. Kane said, "I would sooner see it done where we know pollution is going on, rather than at some unoccupied end of the Valley."

Mr. Lawrence disapproved of taking pollution control permit consideration away from the water board's technical committee in favor of the regional district.

"We went through the formality of getting these permits put to the technical committee to report," he said "and I feel there is to be some usefulness in this we should relay the information."

"If we don't, the next thing we know a permit will be issued and a problem develops and the committee made that there was 'no input' from the water board. That is just an exercise in futility," he stated.

Mr. Par-chomchuk reminded him there are government representatives on the water board technical committee.

But Mr. Lawrence said he felt it would be better to "sound six cents on a letter and getting our views on record than to rely on his director of pollution control representative on the technical committee."

The board has agreed to a request from the B.C. Association of Irrigation Districts that it have an observer at future board meetings.

The board agreed that Brian Harvey, superintendent of the Vernon Irrigation District, should attend as the representative.

Mr. Harvey is already a member of the OBWB technical committee.

A request from the Okanagan-Similkameen Parks Society of Summerland, which sought support for their fight to have Okanagan Mountain set aside as a class A provincial park, was shunted off by the board to the regional districts.

Sympathetic to the Society's endeavors, OBWB directors nonetheless felt it was outside their terms of reference, and referred the society to the three Valley regional districts.

SYMPATHETIC

A request from the Thompson-Nicola Regional District that a public meeting on the Okanagan basin water study be held in Kamloops received the sympathetic ear of the board.

Secretary-manager Bill Par-chomchuk said he is working with B. E. Marr, co-chairman of the federal-provincial consultative board which administers the four-year study, and a suitable date should soon be fixed for a meeting.

The group was faced with more than 500 people when it held an open session in Salmon Arm, Nov. 6.

The last word was, apparently, been written on the struggle by the board to get Brent's Creek in Kelowna included in the Okanagan water study, and its a definite 'no.'

Months of letter writing between the water board, government officials, study group members and even Resources Minister Ray Williston, have failed to move the powerful federal-provincial consultative board, which administers the four-year Okanagan study.

In a final letter to the water board, the consultative board said it has reconsidered the Brent's Creek proposal again "and has reaffirmed its earlier decision."

Firmly slamming the door, the board said "this has been done in view of the priorities of the problems to be considered" under the Okanagan basin agreement.

BEING PROBED

It also reiterated its earlier arguments that the creek is the focus of the joint City of Kelowna local industries probe.

Mr. Lawrence, Kelowna's director of operations, has been given an official pat on the back by the chief engineer of the water investigations branch, B. E. Marr, for his suggestion that a certain type of low grade coal be used in a sewerage treatment plant as pilot project under the Okanagan water study.

Mr. Lawrence said in an interview the low grade coal, known as lignite, would be open pit mined from the Hat Creek area.

He said lignite coal, which has limited commercial value, was "accidentally" found to possess unusual qualities for removing nutrients from effluent.

He said it would have a particularly useful application at the Kelowna plant. The coal and the effluent sludge can be mixed and the nutrients removed.

In his letter to Mr. Lawrence, Mr. Marr said "your suggestion that the Hat Creek deposits possess special qualities that can be used in sewerage treatment is most intriguing and the results of the current tests will be of great interest."

He said Mr. Lawrence's proposal is being considered, with the possibility of including the project in a pilot study under the water study.

Several Okanagan Students Will Receive Degrees At UBC

Twenty-one students from the Central Okanagan are among 1,169 to receive academic degrees from the University of British Columbia.

The degrees were approved at the November sitting of the senate.

Students receiving them completed degree requirements during the summer or at UBC's summer session.

Each recipient has the option of receiving the degree now, or appearing at UBC's spring convocation for the formal degree-granting ceremony.

Following are the Okanagan residents receiving degrees: Patricia Mary Murray, Kelowna, master of arts; Patrick Harold Pettman, Kelowna, master of arts; David Brian F. Cline, Kelowna, bachelor of arts; Galdys Joy Antona, Kelowna, bachelor of elementary education; James Albert Berteig, Kelowna, bachelor of elementary education; Linda Anne Keil, Kelowna, bachelor of elementary education; Roberta Mary Rossi, Kelowna, bachelor of elementary education; Marguerite Delle Waters, Kelowna, bachelor of elementary education; Henry Dirksen, Kelowna, bachelor of secondary education; Roswitha Hildegard Pischke, Kelowna, bachelor of secondary education; John Kenyon, Kelowna, bachelor of science; Mary Elizabeth J. Snowden, Okanagan Centre, bachelor of arts; Minora Dennis Ouchi, Vernon, master of science; Dudley Wilfred Delecher, Vernon, master of education; George Beresford Collis, Vernon, bachelor of elementary education; Allan Robert Goldie, Vernon, bachelor of elementary education; Margaret Ann Measette, Vernon, bachelor of elementary education; Thomas Gary Reece, Westbank, bachelor of commerce; Brock William Lupton, Westbank, bachelor of music; Richard Loring Wageman, Winfield, bachelor of arts; Norman Arthur Arnold, Winfield, bachelor of secondary education.

School Board Hopes To Clear Voting Confusion In District

Voting procedures will be outlined in advertisements for the Dec. 12 elections by School District 23 (Kelowna) secretary-treasurer Fred Macklin told the board Thursday.

"There will be publicity on voting procedures so as not to create problems on voting day," he said.

Voters' lists, which once were prepared by the school boards, are now prepared by the regional districts, he said.

He added an elector may vote only in the area where he is listed—and only once.

"There might be confusion as to why one person receives one ballot and another two, and through publicity, we hope to avoid confusion," he said.

Resident and tenant-electors may vote for trustees but not for the $1,385,200 school construction referendum which will be placed before ratepayers.

Voters may vote in the area they reside or where they own property, but only once, Mr. Macklin said.

If a person owns property in one area, but resides in Kelowna, he may vote for trustees only in Kelowna, or for the referendum in the area he owns property and for trustees in that area if any are up for election, board officials said.

If a person owns property in a number of areas, he may choose the area where he can vote, but only once.

Further procedures will be listed in the advertisements, officials added.

Learning Proper Methods Important For New Drivers

Winter driving hazards are facing new drivers for the first time, says the Canadian Safety Council.

An important lesson they must learn and practice, which also applies to experienced motorists, is how to apply brakes under hazardous conditions.

In a Safe Driving Week message, the council says motorists should make sure their vehicles are in top mechanical condition.

Having good snow tires will help give traction and motorists should always carry reinforced tire chains for extremely slippery and severe road conditions.

"The most important secret of winter driving is taking your time," the council adds.

Try the brakes with a single short brake application to get the feel of the road—but make sure there's no vehicle behind.

VRS Group Heads South

Forty Volunteer Recreational Services members travelled to Penticton Wednesday to observe Penticton's retirement centre.

Handicrafts were displayed and there were demonstrations of rug making, copper tooling and flower making.

Meanwhile the Kelowna senior citizen's group will hold a birthday party Dec. 12 in the First United Church hall at 1:30 p.m. to mark its second year of operation.

Due to new services and an increase in members, VRS executives are contemplating a shorter name for the organization.

The proposed name is Kelowna Retirement Centre.

Under the Societies' Act, an organization's name may be changed if approved by a majority of members attending.

... Snow

Snow flurries changing to mixed rain in some valleys, should continue to dominate the weather pattern over the Central Okanagan Sunday, as an active Pacific system moves inland.

Mild air associated with the system and cold Arctic air combined overnight to produce heavy snowfalls throughout the province.

Skies should be cloudy with some sunny periods Sunday, as the mild air pushes the Arctic system northward.

Winds should be southerly 20 in some valleys.

Friday's high was 29, the low 11, with 1.5 inches of snow reported to 8 a.m. today.

Low tonight and high Sunday should be 25 and 37.

SHOPLIFTING

Stores' Goods Being Watched

Light-fingered shopping, or the art of acquiring goods without the formality of payment, is an occupational hazard most business firms have learned to live with.

In Kelowna, the unlawful practice seems to be a seasonal thing, according to local RCMP, with offences reaching their peak in late summer, early fall and Christmas. Greatest incidence is in the petty theft (under $50) category, which is in the summary conviction classification. Above that amount, and the charge becomes an indictable offence.

"Clerks and managers are becoming increasingly alert," says local RCMP Sgt. John Graham. Which is the case in the city, since most stores have no paid floor police and must rely on sharp-eyed personnel to minimize theft dangers. Shop size or merchandise lines seem to have little bearing on compulsive or impulsive shoplifting, according to a survey.

with one shop suffering loss of a $75 tuckskin jacket in October. Again, management relies on alertness of personnel to discourage theft. "They have been doing a good job," said the manager, adding since the October theft, clerks have been advised to watch customers more closely, with one member of the staff remaining in the front of the store when business picks up.

Seemingly theft proof, shoe stores have their share of the payless fraternity. One such establishment lost a pair of $20 boots from a front window display last month, although the occurrence was described as "rare" by the manager. "We keep an eye on them," he said, adding that greatest loss was during summer. He also thought the advent of self-serve stores encourages impulsive thievery, since some frustrated customers "just walk out with the goods" when they fail to find an attentive clerk.

SMALL ITEMS

In spite of limited opportunity and increased danger of discovery, quick-fingered customers absconded with ties in a local men's clothing shop. Losses in smaller businesses are generally described as "minimal," with the brunt of the shoplifting headache borne by large department and drug stores.

Hardest hit and harder to detect are thefts in larger dry goods department stores. One major firm on Bernard Avenue had a loss of $123 in 10 days in November, comprising such items as a $69 leather coat, a $39 corduroy coat and a $15 vest. "They even steal pants to pant suits," complained the manager, who employs no store detective service. One main problem with apprehension of a suspected customer is they must be approached outside the premises with goods in hand and no sales slip to support their purchase. The firm also suffers a substantial loss in sunglasses theft during summer, as well as lesser items in the women's wear line.

On a lesser scale, smaller women's wear shops are just as prone to the shoplifting bug.

pletely eliminate shoplifting, but most businessmen have devised a system to recoup their losses. They calculate the amount of their losses and add it to the mark-up of goods still to be sold. So, in the long run, the more that is stolen, the higher prices will be for everyone.

Another large dry goods department store, which also maintains no paid floor police, described theft loss as "not a high rate." Shoplifting targets are mostly in the pocketable class with a younger generation appeal, said the manager. The store has also had "things disappear" in the men's wear department, with the most popular women's wear item being skirts. However, largest theft loss was in the small item category.

With more diversified merchandise and less chance of being detected, big name department stores in the city offer particular appeal to shoplifters. But again, main loss is confined to smaller, easily hidden goods, such as drugs, clocks, jewellery, records, cosmetics and nylons.

Larger items stolen are mostly in the wearable category, particularly in the teen-age clothes sections, said an assistant manager. Only one major department store admitted having store detectives.

Lesser theft-prone businesses included jewellers, drug stores, lighting fixtures and appliance shops, and camera firms.

Vernon Festival In 1971

Vernon is the site of the 1971 Okanagan Valley Music Festival, April 19 to 24.

There are 428 classes in the festival, with a number of additions to the syllabus.

Among them is the first annual British Columbia band and choir championships, in honor of the province's centenary. Entries close March 1.

Copies of the syllabus outlining classes, eligibility, fees, program procedure and including an entry form will be available soon from Wentworth Music.

Adjudicators will be: Kenneth van Barhold, career musician, who has performed with leading orchestras; Ronald Gibson, retired professor of music, University of Winnipeg; Michael Strutt, concert artist who has performed on CBC; Tudor Jones, commandant, Canadian Forces School of Music, CFB Naden; Alf Carlson, internationally-known accordionist, educator, writer and lecturer.

Snow Hits All Roads

Following is the road report to 8:30 a.m., issued by the department of highways:

THROUGH WINDOW

Damage to two vehicles was estimated at about $150 Friday when a car parked on Bernard Avenue was shoved through a store front window. The momentum was provided in a collision with another vehicle travelling east on the street. Police identified the two owners as Warren Carlyle and Nelly Ashworth, both of Kelowna.

CONTEST CONSIDERED

The annual Christmas lighting contest will be a major agenda topic at the regular meeting of the Kelowna and District Jaycees Monday. Judging of the popular competition normally takes place at the end of December, with cut-off date usually around Dec. 20. Lack of sponsorship this year is apparently the reason for the current delay in launching the yearly Jaycee project.

BANDS PLAY

Kelowna secondary junior and senior school bands will hold a concert Dec. 15 in the school's west gym. More than 100 students will perform traditional concert band music, with Christmas selection. Band directors are Brian Todd and Ray Friesen, who handle the junior and senior bands respectively.

CHOCOLATE SALE

KLO Junior Secondary students will be out in force Tuesday to raise funds for the school band's activities. To raise an estimated $400, students will sell chocolate bars throughout Kelowna and vicinity.

A Human Life Is Like House With Many Rooms

There is a book out by Mabel Goodbown entitled, "Decorate Your Way." The first section of the book contains helpful information and advice on room planning, the arrangement of furniture according to the activities carried on.

The second part deals with the selection of furniture, contemporary and traditional, elegant and informal, and always with the purpose in mind of choosing what will best suit the needs and comforts of those who are to use it.

This book would give us hints on how to decorate our way from room to room and thus to bring the whole house into a place of beauty, of usefulness and of inspiration.

A human life is like a house with many rooms. There is the play room, the study, there is the kitchen, and the library, and the chapel of the soul. Perhaps we should be paying more attention to the way in which these rooms are decorated.

For instance, we can decorate the play room of our lives with fair play, and the desire to give as well as to get satisfaction in the midst of competition.

Perhaps we should give closer attention to the kind of material that is placed in the library of our inner selves so that although we are realists, yet we see beyond the visible to the invisible God as shown in the Bible.

May the words of God be read in the library and lived out in the living room.

May our living room be decorated with the bright colors of faith, and hope, and love. Free to roam around the house of life may there be the greatest guest a person may have, the Son of God.

So often we keep Him in confinement in the chapel. Let us give Him the freedom of the house, this Christmas season, so that his influence may beautify and strengthen and inspire every area of our life's dwelling.

Single Economic Market

(Christian Science Monitor)

The vast implications of Western Europe's drawing together into a single economic market have been further underlined in recent days. Four of the world's largest banks have announced the formation of a $50 million banking venture, to be based in London. Their purpose is to take advantage of the Europe-centred business increasingly generated by economic integration in Europe and by the tremendous growth of multinational corporations.

The joint venture brings together $46 billion in deposits of the Chase Manhattan Bank (America's third largest), the Royal Bank of Canada (Canada's largest), the National Westminster Bank, Ltd. (Great Britain's second largest), and the Westdeutsche Landesbank Girozentrale (one of West Germany's largest).

Of course, the homelands of three of the banks are not in the Common Market, which provides the nucleus for European economic integration. The British are negotiating now to join the market. And the banking link-up with the Americans and Canadians suggests the kind of access to the market the Atlantic neighbors hope will follow British entry.

Actually, the joint venture was one of three announced recently. Last month, the Credit Lyonnais (France's second largest bank) and the Commerzbank (West Germany's third largest) agreed to tie in many of their operations. And, this week, another European consortium was set-up by major banks from the Netherlands, West Germany, Great Britain and Belgium.

At the moment, the six Common Market countries (France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg) dominate the world export market, with 30 per cent of the trade. The United States, in contrast, accounts for about half as much of the world's export trade, and Japan a sixth. The Common Market's position can only be strengthened as Great Britain and other EFTA nations join the six.

Economic visionaries see in the decade or two ahead far freer movements of capital and labor in Western Europe. Many even argue that political integration will have to follow the economic, to deal with the social dislocations that will likely arise, and to take full advantage of a stronger position at the world power table.

But whether anything like a United States of Europe—made up of 16 or 17 nations and a population of 400 million—does emerge within the coming score of years, it will result as much from accommodations such as the new banking combines as from governmental steps.

NEWS ANALYSIS

Autonomy Urged In Pakistan

By PHILIP DEANE
Foreign Affairs Analyst

The most influential leaders of East Pakistan are calling for revolution in the wake of the frightful disaster which struck their country. These are not wild leftist but respectable establishment figures demanding, once again, that their part of Pakistan be granted extensive autonomy.

Pakistan consists of two parts, the west and the east; they are divided by the entire breadth of India. They are united only by the fact that they share a common religion. When British India was partitioned on August 15, 1947, the predominantly Muslim parts formed a separate state. It so happened that the bulk of the Muslims living in British India were grouped at two ends of the country, in the north west and the north east.

The two segments of Pakistan could not be more different. The western segment has great stretches of desert; it has high mountains; it has always been the route invaders have followed into India, among them Alexander the Great. The area where West Pakistan lies, by the force of history and geography, has been a war zone very often, and warriors grow in the delta region of the Ganges and the Brahmaputra, two enormous rivers. It is wet, hot, fertile and overpopulated. It has a debilitating climate. It does not grow warriors.

There was much killing of Muslims at the time of partition. The bulk of the Muslim troops came from the warrior races of West Pakistan. Even after the partition killing ended, the people of East Pakistan felt they needed protection, surrounded as they were, on all sides, by Indian territory. They needed the West Pakistani troops. These troops have stayed ever since.

Being the military power in East Pakistan, the West Pakistanis have acted a little like colonial masters. The two groups grew steadily apart after the initial surge of unity forced upon them by threat of India. The West Pakistanis speak Urdu, and the East Pakistanis speak a different language, Bengali. The West Pakistanis are bigger and quite fair skinned. The East Pakistanis are shorter and very dark; there are inevitable racial tensions.

The federal government is in West Pakistan, moreover. The men of power in the army and in the government are all from West Pakistan. In view of these conditions, it is not surprising that when things go wrong and the government cannot cope—whatever the reason—the people and leaders of East Pakistan assume that they are suffering from discrimination and speak of rebellion. The one thing that still keeps the two halves of Pakistan together politically, is the fear of what divides them geographically—India.

KEEP IT UP

Sir:

I have read with interest the recent news articles concerning the problems that the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce is experiencing with city council in obtaining some $25,000 which it requires to finance its promotion of tourist and convention activities at Kelowna for the coming year.

The chamber apparently has undertaken this project on behalf of us but all of the money must be provided by city taxpayers. The parsimonious wretches on the city council are balking at providing this paltry pittance of only $25,000 for the year, using the curious argument that businesses such as hotels, motels, gas stations, etc. (to whom the tourists give most of their money) should be asked to at least share in the cost of tourist promotional activities.

On the other hand, the chamber of commerce state their case as being that all Kelowna residents benefit a great deal from the $25,000 which they spend on promoting the tourist and convention activity.

I feel a duty to my city and must offer my views in order to correct our wayward council—give the chamber the money fellows—of course we all benefit.

Firstly, look at all the added employment of bartenders, waitresses, chair ladies, etc. in the hospitality industry. Look at the big wages and the year round payroll all this brings to Kelowna.

While we are on the matter of getting more employment, why doesn't council give out some money to the sawmill, packing-houses, orchardists and the businesses in the industrial park so that they can promote their sales, leading to more employment. Don't be so cheap councilmen.

Secondly, any fool will tell you that even more tourists means that the city will be able to get along without having to spend more taxpayers' money on fool things like public benches, areas, parks, roads, etc. Look at the big wages and the year round payroll all this brings to Kelowna.

Let us remember too, that we are dealing with human beings. Throughout elementary schools, parents are consistently reminded of the concern for the education of the "whole" child. Does this concern come to an abrupt end at Grade 7? My sympathy lies with those who take longer to adjust to change and need the security of a school at the community level. There has always been a "generation gap" between youth and adults—let's not create a new one between 14-year-olds and 17-year-olds.

Are students really being deprived of "fringe" benefits? You will find programs offered at Dr. Knox which are not available at Kelowna Secondary. Also, has any student wishing to take electronics (or any other subjects) been refused entrance?

In the final analysis, who will benefit from this move? Students? Teachers? Rate-payers?

Tory Canyon Disaster Led To 'Oil Guard' Plan

LONDON (CP) — When the tankers Pacific Glory and Allegro collided recently off the Isle of Wight, Britain was for the first time fully prepared to meet the threat of massive oil pollution that loomed over the Channel.

Since the Torrey Canyon disaster of 1967, which spewed 100,000 gallons of crude oil in a 35-mile-long slick threatening the coasts of England and France, British authorities have been busy developing a system to detect and deal with the beginnings of another black tide.

Britain feels particularly threatened by the increasing problem of oil pollution because she imports nearly 100 million tons of oil a year and most of the tankers using ports in northwestern Europe pass close to British shores.

In the summer of 1970 Britain became the first major maritime country to install a round-the-coast organization to combat the oil menace. Basically an early-warning system co-ordinating the coast guard and the marine survey service, it operates from 30 ports around Britain, each of which is equipped with a simple new device for dispersing oil slicks.

The organization, expected to cost £50,000 a year, is run by the board of trade—now part of the new department of trade and industry—which is responsible for ocean pollution beyond one mile from shore. Within that area, local authorities take over.

All British ships and aircraft, both military and civil, now are instructed to report sightings of slicks or accidents likely to produce an oil spillage. Together with the existing early-warning system operated by the coast guard, these reports are fed to the board of trade headquarters in London and to the other main link in the chain—the men of the marine survey service.

The main function of these officers, who already are established at the 30 key ports, is to supervise such matters as seaworthiness and safety in merchant shipping using British coastal waters. Now their role includes mustering ocean-going tugs or similar vessels and equipping them to deal with oil slicks. In cases of major pollution, they can call on units of the Royal Navy and Royal Air Force.

The special equipment stored at each port consists of non-toxic detergent sprays which are mounted on booms projecting from each side of the vessel, and a wooden device resembling a series of five-barred gates, towed behind the tug to mix and disperse the treated oil and water.

DESIGN IS SIMPLE

Devised by a team of oil pollution experts from the government's laboratories at Warren Spring, Hertfordshire, it has been described by an American coast guard official who watched a demonstration as so simple "you could fabricate one almost by looking at it."

It costs about £300 a set and its effect on oil, said a laboratory spokesman, is similar to what happens when a housewife is washing dishes. Oil or grease is broken up by the detergent into minute specks which dissolve into the water. Mixing it up with the "five-barred-gate" apparatus hastens the process and enables microbes in the sea water to get busy on breaking the particles down still further.

The equipment, which the laboratory claims can handle all types of oil, was designed to fit any vessel with the minimum of handling and crew instruction. The boom carrying the spray nozzles is fixed to the ship's rail and the pumping equipment sprays at about 20 gallons a minute. One tug running at 10 knots and spraying a 60-foot-wide ribbon of ocean can clear 150 tons of oil in a day.

Although the new equipment was tested successfully in a tanker collision earlier this year and tugs cleared some of the Pacific Glory's spillage, officials admit the new system is geared to "average" slicks of a few hundred tons.

COULD TAKE WEEKS

In a disaster of Torrey Canyon scale—or as the most recent collision might have turned out had the Pacific Glory's bulkheads given way—it would take a fleet of such

Commons Brings In Legislation For Grants, Guaranteed Loans

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislation extending federal government grants and guaranteed loans to spark business developments to the service and other industries was introduced in the Commons Friday.

Hitherto, grants and loans backed by the department of regional economic expansion have been limited to manufacturing and processing plants.

The bill introduced by Jean Marchand, regional expansion minister, would make loan guarantees available for new developments providing convention, hotel, office and shopping facilities.

By including all commercial industries, rather than limiting the incentives to manufacturing and processing, the government brings in the broad field of services. The service industries are generally ones that employ large numbers of workers.

By guaranteeing repayment of loans made by the banks and other commercial lenders, the government believes it will be easier for businessmen to borrow money needed to establish new plants or to expand and

Johnson-Hummel Nuptials Held At Anglican Church

St. Michael and All Angels' Anglican Church, Kelowna, was the setting for the late afternoon nuptials on Nov. 28 uniting in marriage Gloria Irene Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Waring Johnson, formerly of Calgary, now of Rutland, and Lieut. Keith Christian Hummel of Shearwater CFB, N.S., son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Christian Hummel of Langley, B.C.

Rev. Paul Robinson conducted the ceremony in a setting of white mums and pink and red carnations which decorated the altar and the front of the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a model gown of French puffed brocade, enhanced with amethyst earrings and necklace, a gift of the groom.

Her headpiece of pearl and lace coronet style held a full-length train which completed her ensemble and she carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses, baby's breath and marguerites. Something old and borrowed was her mother's Alexandria bracelet from Egypt, and a blue garter completed the tradition.

IDENTICAL GOWNS

Maid-of-honor was the bride's sister, Linda Kathleen Johnson of Calgary and bridesmaids were Sandra Kathryn Dent of Vancouver and the groom's sister, Judy Hummel, also of Vancouver.

Identical gowns of floor-length hot pink were worn by the bride and bridesmaids. The gowns, fashioned on Empress Eugenie lines, were accented by headpieces of miniature dried flowers in pink, white and green to match and they carried bouquets of mums with dried flowers to match the headpieces.

Ken Quest, uncle of the groom, of Richmond served as best man and ushers were Ray Hummel, a cousin of the groom, of Vancouver and Lieut. Niel Raux of the RCMP of Burnaby.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Johnson chose a two piece purple ensemble of embossed tulle with silver accessories, accented by a corsage of white carnations.

The groom's mother wore a green crimplene dress topped by a sleeveless brocade coat. White carnations added contrast to her costume.

For the reception at the Capri, the bride's grandfather, Bruce Johnson, hosted the bride and best man, Ken Quest, did the honors for the bridesmaids.

FATHERS INVOLVED

A sword belonging to the groom's father was used by the bride and groom to cut the three-tiered wedding cake baked and decorated by the bride's father. White and pink sweetheart roses centred the cake which was flanked by pink candles in silver holders.

Telegrams were received from relatives and friends from Calgary, Vancouver, CFB Shearwater, N.S., and phone calls included one from Honolulu.

Out-of-town guests included grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Johnson of Calgary and grandmother, Mrs. E. A. Burnett of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Ken Quest, Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Hummel and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hummel, Mr. and Mrs. J. Matthews and daughter Helen, Mr. and Mrs. B. Dickson, all of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Reg Nipins and Mr. and Mrs. A. Gibson, Whonnock, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Binkley, CFB Shilo, Man.; Mrs. I. Ball, Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. B. Horn, Mr. and Mrs. E. Evans, Penticton; Sandra McNeill, Miss B. Hoffer, Mauréen Henderson and Lesley Sharp, all of Vancouver.

Before leaving for a honeymoon to Shuswap Lake, the bride donned a mid-length green coachman's coat with matching plaid two piece suit. Knee-length laced brown suede boots and crown tam completed her costume.

The newlyweds will reside at CFB Shearwater, Nova Scotia.

Do-It-Yourself Divorce Kits Make Law Officials Unhappy

TORONTO (CP) — Lawyers and court officials say they are unhappy over do-it-yourself divorce kits being offered for sale in Ontario for $75.

Lawyers, whose charges can range upward from about $500 for getting a client a divorce, warn that people doing their own legal work are taking an unnecessary risk.

But the Law Society of Upper Canada says there is nothing illegal about the do-it-yourself kits it has inspected. The kits were introduced in British Columbia following introduction of the new Divorce Act in July, 1968.

The divorce law is the same for Ontario but there are differences in regulations and procedures for filing legal documents in the Ontario Supreme Court.

Since the kits came to Ontario last month about 20 such divorce petitions have been filed with the 4,500 divorce actions filed by lawyers at the Supreme Court's central office here. None of the do-it-yourself petitions has yet reached a court room.

William Bentley, 23, who is in partnership with Rainer Moeller, 27, operates Divorce Data Co., said he sells his kits only to those who appear to have an uncomplicated divorce situation. He said he has referred many would-be clients to legal aid for advice because their cases appear complicated.

Mr. Bentley, who has no legal training, did research on the rules of practice and procedures for divorce cases in the Ontario Supreme Court. He said he has had a good response, receiving about 200 inquiries for kits since putting them on the market a month ago.

Rogers Pass Figures Down

REVELSTOKE — A total of 50,403 passengers in 23,370 vehicles travelled through the Rogers Pass in November this year compared with 51,341 passengers in 23,287 vehicles for the same month last year, J. Lunnery superintendent of Mount Revelstoke and Glacier National Parks said today.

Of the visitors who travelled the pass during November, 25,698 in 11,666 vehicles were travelling East while 24,705 passengers in 11,684 vehicles travelled West.

MUSEUM NOTES

New Finds Best Reward

By URSULA SURTEES

Running a museum can be a real challenge.

Particularly when you know that you are never going to please everyone, and no matter what decision you reach on any one exhibit, criticism will in all probability be heaped upon you.

Nevertheless, there are sufficient rewarding moments to compensate. This applies particularly in the field of new acquisitions for the museum.

Many's the time I have attended an antique auction, hoping to get a particular significant or historic item, only to be beaten hopelessly in the bidding. One such event happened recently when I went to an auction specifically to bid on a stained glass window. What was so special about a window?—someone is sure to ask.

Well, this particular one was a Hudson's Bay Co. of very early vintage, with the crest beautifully done in stained glass panes fitted into lead frames and surrounded by small panes of pale green-yellow and amber glass—a real collector's item, and in all probability one of the few undamaged ones in existence, and certainly a very early one.

Sad to say, our budget does not allow for extraordinary bids, no matter how desirable the item. I lost out, to, of all people an interior decorator who purchased this window as part of the decor for a new restaurant opening this coming spring in Gastown, Vancouver. This was a disappointment, but out of it came a most unexpected happening.

I was told of a window in a private garage in Okanagan Centre, which I went with all speed to see.

I was delighted to find the window, not quite as elegant, but certainly a "find". The old gentleman whose garage it was, was most pleased to let us have it, provided we gave him a new window after all—no crest on it, but a fine flat beaver over a shield of clear plate glass surrounded by small colored stained glass panes of glass.

Later I found this one probably pre-dates the one at the auction, as the use of the crest came later.

Our collection of early trade items is frequently added to by donations, but every once in a while we have to purchase things. This is always a major decision, as we have only a limited amount to expend, so must choose what we get carefully.

This year's major purchase was a selection of pelts of Canadian fur-bearing animals. We have in the museum the rebuilt original trading post built by John McDougall in 1861. This was the only post for some years between Kamloops and Keremeos.

In it we had a good selection of iron pots, traps, guns, cloth, crocks, and many other items which would have been found in such a trading post.

But we had no trade furs, and a fur trading post without the furs looked somewhat naked. We had tried to substitute and fill in the void with deer hides, but they lacked the authentic touch.

Thanks to the manager of one of our department stores, we were put in touch with a raw fur house, and offered a selection of first quality furs, and because they were for public exhibit, we were given an excellent price quote on them.

The pelts include, a Canada Lynx, Red Fox, Marten, Mink, Muskrat and Beaver, and our trading post is now transformed. They are just two of the nice incidents which help to combat those other days, when someone will say—"is this all there is?" or "what's so important about all this junk?" and the most frustrating one of all, "Oh, we had lots of those and threw them out." And the days we have a group in who say, "why don't you have more old photos, or Indian material, or pioneer things?"—closely followed by another group who say, "Why do you have so many old photos?" etc., etc.

But I guess that's what makes it interesting, and keeps me on my toes.

Need Durable Cars With Less Glitter

MONTREAL (CP) — Consumers were told Friday to concentrate a little more on the durability of automobiles and a little less on their glitter.

Charles Moreau, manager of the Quebec division of the Insurance Bureau of Canada, said that Canadian insurance companies pay out $1,200,000 to repair and replace flimsy cars each day of the year.

Speaking at a symposium on misleading advertising, he described modern automobiles as being "so easy to dent, they cost too much to repair and they offer little protection."

"I'm sure if we could get a group of engineers to design a car for modern conditions... they'd probably come up with something that could withstand an impact of reasonable intensity."

"Today's cars? They're nothing but luxury items." The symposium heard statistics gathered between 1966 and 1970 which showed that the cost of metal parts rose by 19 per cent, copper parts by 34 per cent, fender replacements by 35 per cent and nuts, bolts and screws and other parts by 21 per cent.

During that period, medical and dental fees for persons injured in auto accidents rose by 23 and 29 per cent respectively.

PROVED MOREAU said "we have proved the need for stronger cars in this age of swiftly-rising prices."

"All we can do is put the facts to the public and wait for action."

Michael Trebilcock, a McGill University law professor, said a reform in legal procedure is necessary if misleading advertising is to be reformed.

He said legal processes are often inaccessible to consumers who have a complaint about a particular product or advertising or sales practice.

"Logistically, it pays no one at present, whatever his financial position, to litigate a small consumer claim."

"Thus, the challenge facing the law is making the courts open to everyone who has a claim. That challenge is, until that challenge is met, all the substantive reform in this, as in other areas of laymen's protection, will go for naught."

Mr. Trebilcock said the ability of governmental regulatory agencies, such as the Federal Trade Commission in the United States to deal with misleading advertising is becoming

SUBJECTED TO PRESSURE The agencies were subjected to political pressure through threats to cut financial appropriations, and also became "lamed" by being in too close contact with the industry they were supposed to regulate.

Mr. Trebilcock said the FTC receives about 9,000 complaints a year. It investigates about one out of eight and only one in 10 of those investigations actually results in an action.

Ron Basford, federal consumer affairs minister, said his Canadian counterpart agency receives about 300 complaints monthly alleging misleading advertising.

Since last July 31, 1969, 33 cases under the Combines Investigation Act have been brought to court with 11 convictions. Another 49 prosecutions were initiated under the misleading price advertising section and 34 were completed.

In his speech, delivered by Warren Allmand, MP for Montreal.

Funeral services were held Friday from the Garden Chapel for Dorothy Silcock, 92, of 790 Harvey Ave., who died Thursday.

She is survived by two sisters, three aunts and several nieces and nephews.

One sister-in-law, Mrs. Tom Barrett, of Kelowna, also survives.

Capt. Reginald Pell officiated and cremation followed.

Those wishing may donate to the heart fund.

Stimulants To Thought Presented To XI Alpha Sigma Phi Chapter

At recent meetings of XI Alpha Sigma Phi chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, members have been treated to varied but informative programs. Stimulants to thought, given by Della Gerlinger, began with a quote from Shakespeare. "There's nothing either good or bad but thinking makes it so."

With this thought in mind, members proceeded to give answers to the effects the three mediums of movies, radio and television have on our thinking.

Discussions followed on three more mediums: newspapers, magazines and books and what effect each had as stimulants. It was found that social problems of society were found in every media and members discussed some most recent current events on social problems. It was interesting to note how different forms benefit our thinking.

The program on grooming was given by Mrs. Stanley Rees who informed the group that women have desired beauty since the 14th century when they used goat's milk on their skin, and glycerine and rose water were used in the 19th century.

The Egyptians used Kohl to line their eyebrows and stained their lips with red berries.

In our modern day, beauty is not make-up alone but making the best use of natural endowments and one is never too old or too young. Each age has its own kind of beauty from childhood to the years of grace. Every part of the human body was discussed with tips to good grooming beginning of course with proper rest and food and exercise.

Proper make-up and hair coloring combinations with rules for color harmony were of special interest, as were ways to apply corrective make-up to cover up flaws, such as a large nose, and dark shadows under the eyes.

Hair grows at the rate of a half inch per month and is continually being shed so that we have a new head of hair every six years. So no need to worry when hair comes out with combing. It is just nature's way to help keep you beautiful. The modern fad of bleaching and dying the hair, teasing and back-combing, and setting the hair in rollers and curlers all tend to damage the hair, but this can be helped with 100 strokes of brushing every day. Fashion fads change but good grooming remains steadfast through the centuries with new and better products available each year.

The daughter of a prominent Westbank family, Bobbie Pittchard Coates, after several years absence in San Francisco, has returned to Kelowna and has been appointed manager of Heather's ladies' wear store. Mrs. Coates was born and educated here and is a skilled amateur artist and fashion designer. Her husband is a partner in Coates/Clarke Advertising and with their two sons, Matt and Geoff, they have taken up residence at Okanagan Mission.

TO BE MARRIED

The marriage of Boots Elsdon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Montie Elsdon, formerly of Kelowna, now of Lakeshore Road, Okanagan Mission and Robert Lipsett of Kelowna will take place on Dec. 28 at 7 p.m. in St. Michael and All Angels' Anglican Church, Kelowna.

CONTRARY

'The Time Has Come . . . Speak Of Many Things'

By MARY GREER

It will soon be a year since Mrs. George Holland was elected to the Kelowna city council—the first woman to win the confidence of Kelowna voters. During her first term, our lady alderman hasn't resorted to any of the so-called feminine tactics, so often used as excuse for not electing women to public office; no temper tantrums, no tears, no feminine wiles. Gwen Holland has proved to be a conscientious, responsible hard working representative, one who does her 'homework' and one who has given freely of her time (almost exclusively to city council).

Perhaps this would be a good time to review the whole attitude towards women in public office whether it be on city council, school boards, municipal regions or some other civic body.

Last year I suspect, many male voters gave Mrs. Holland the nod, as a sort of chivalrous gesture towards women in general. You know, "There should be ONE woman on council to represent the women's point of view," whatever that is.

As far as I'm concerned a woman seeking public office should be measured by the same criteria as any individual—intelligence, integrity, initiative, responsibility and availability.

Public office is more demanding each year; they're handling more and more of the taxpayer's dollar, they are responsible for our environment, our streets and roads for our recreational facilities in summer and winter, from children to senior citizens, for orderly growth patterns of expansion instead of a crazy patch work quilt of hit and miss mixed up planning. School trustees have perhaps the most challenging task of all, to meet growing demands on a shrinking budget.

To say we ought to have a woman to represent the women is first of all, a fallacy. If you're going to use this sort of thinking, then at least half of the council should be women, since more than half of the voters are female. I haven't checked but a cursory glance at any directory shows more women reside in the city than men.

We don't need a woman to represent the female population anymore than we need a Canadian Italian to represent that portion of our residents or an Englishman to represent all of those of Anglo-Saxon origin or a Roman Catholic to represent the Catholic citizens, and so on.

The point I'm trying to make is neither race, creed nor sex should be considered as a basis for choosing a candidate.

To get to the point, when we measure up our candidates, let's forget sex and consider only if the individual is suited to do the job that needs doing regardless of whether or not there are already one or two women, or men, for that matter, already in office.

Anyway, what I started out to do, before I got sidetracked, was to present an orchid to Gwen Holland. You've come through with flying colors. Being the first female in the council chambers hasn't been an easy mile to make. Eyes and ears were turned on you critically. You had to do your homework extra well, so no one could say, "I told you so." You've passed your rookie trial what's more, you haven't become 'one of the boys', and honey, that's not easy to do, is it?

Abortion Time limits Discussed By Association For Repeal Of Laws

OTTAWA (CP) — Some women have been mistakenly led to feel that they have up to the 24th week of pregnancy to get a safe abortion, the Association for the Repeal of Canadian Abortion Laws said today in a statement.

The association, which says it receives up to 50 calls a week for help, says that too many women come to it after 12 weeks of the gestation period have passed.

It says the news that the New York abortion law permits pregnancies to be terminated up to the 24th week of pregnancy has mistakenly led some women to feel that they have that entire period of time in which to get a safe abortion.

But while an abortion before the 12-week period is safe and simple, after 12 weeks the operation is much more complicated, causing greater risk to the woman and increasing the cost considerably, the association says.

"Women should have their pregnancies diagnosed as soon as possible and, should it be decided that the pregnancy is unwanted, immediate arrangements for an abortion should be made. Women should also be warned against 'doing their own shopping' in New York state and urged to seek help from ARCAL or organizations who are able to provide a similar service."

After Honeymoon Abroad Couple Will Reside Here

Following a honeymoon trip to The Netherlands and points in Europe, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wiersema whose marriage was event of Nov. 28, will make their home in Kelowna.

White candles and white ribbon pew markers decorated St. David's Presbyterian Church for the 3 p.m. ceremony conducted by Rev. J. Van Hemert.

Soloist Martha Bergen of Kelowna sang the Wedding Prayer, accompanied by Jack Tinga of Rutland.

The bride, Jenny Wolters of Kelowna is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pieter Wolters of The Netherlands and the groom, also of Kelowna, is the son of Mrs. N. Haas of Edmonton and the late Mr. K. Wiersema.

Given in marriage by her uncle, H. Vanderveen, the bride chose a full-length white gown of crepe peau de soie with stand-up collar. The front of the A-line dress featured a floral embossed bodice and the long sleeves were slightly puffed with tight cuffs. A long train fell from the empire waistline in the back. A small white floral arrangement of white satin held a layered shoulder - length bouffant net veil.

CARRIED BIBLE
She carried a white Bible decorated with a satin ribbon and a single-red rose.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Grace Muller of Aldergrove, B.C. and bridesmaid, Mrs. Margaret Sutherland of Delta, B.C., wore identical gowns of royal blue floor-length in A-line styling with angel sleeves.

The flower girl, Jeannette Vanderveen, wore a short dress with puff sleeves of the same material.

MR. AND MRS. BERT WIERSEMA

(Pope's Studio)

terial. Ring bearer was Richard Vanderveen.

The headresses of all bridal attendants were fashioned of small white imitation flowers entwined in their coiffures.

Edward Wiersema of Edmonton served as best man and groomsman was Charles Wiersema, also of Edmonton. Ushers were Jerry Jensen and Henk Jensen, both of Kelowna.

For the reception at the East Kelowna hall, the bride's aunt received in a beige colored suit accented with an orange chrysanthemum corsage.

The groom's mother chose a white and gold dress with matching jacket.

White candles flanked the three-tiered wedding cake which centred the bride's table. Blue and white streamers and decorations completed the decor. The toast to the bride was given by Gary Vanderveen.

For her going away outfit the bride chose a winter white dress with long belled sleeves. A brown purse and shoes completed her ensemble which was contrasted with a corsage of red roses.

Six New Brownies In North Glenmore

The North Glenmore Brownie Pack is in full swing and the parents' group held their annual meeting with a good attendance. Officers elected were: chairman, Mrs. Nick Bulach; vice-chairman, Mrs. Fred Horkoff; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Sandra Hepper; badge convener, Mrs. William Horkoff; telephone, Mrs. John Naito, Mrs. James Aitkens and tours, Mrs. Alfred Wanke and Mrs. William Newman.

Nine new brownies were enrolled by brown owl, Mrs. Ernie Benzer, who was assisted by tawny owl, Mrs. M. Wentworth and packie, Janet Powell. The proud new brownies who were led by their sixers up a path of evergreen boughs and red berries were: Bonnie Bloomfield, Sheila Clements, Brenda Johnson, Nancy Horkoff, Elena Marciano, Donna Naito, Linda Newman, Lee Loseth and Pam Wentworth.

Refreshments of tea and toast were capably served by Daphne Braam, Laura Clarke, Allison Newman and Dagmar Wanke.

Navy League Present Gifts

The regular monthly meeting of the Navy League of Canada, Kelowna branch, was held recently in the armories.

After the Sunset service of the Navy League Cadets, Mr. L. R. Fletcher, president of the Navy League, presented gifts to Lt. W. Johnson and Lt. G. McKenzie, who are leaving the local branch. Lt. Johnson to become Area Officer and Lt. McKenzie moving to Penitence.

Presentations were also made to their wives on behalf of the Ladies Auxilliary of Navy League. Refreshments were served by the auxilliary.

SWINGING PARTNERS

The Vernon Clubs held their party in the West Vernon School Saturday evening, with George Fyall as caller. Dancers attended from the various Valley clubs.

The Westsyde Square Dance Club, accepted the invitation of the Hix's and Chix Square Dance club of Spokane to join them at their club on Nov. 28, with Ray Fredrickson of Summerland as caller.

Dancers who travelled to Spokane for the weekend were: Malcolm and Karleen Greenwood, Norm and Vera McFetridge, John and Joan Rodgers, Eric and Betty Brown, Dudley May, Ilene Brewster, Allan Whale, Janet McDonald, George and Lucy Sherstobitoff, Hans and Allison Brock, Hugh and Janet McCartney, Art and Madeline Dunn, Rod and Win Appleton, Lindsey North, Ray and Doreen Fredrickson.

The evening commenced by meeting at the Green Bluff Grange Hall, for buffet supper, followed by dancing to the terrific calling of Ray, until midnight. The evening was concluded by one of the callers opening his home to an after-party, which proves once again, that square dancing is fun, whether at local club dances or away from home.

The Kelowna Wagon Wheelers will host a party in the Winfield Community Hall Dec. 5, at 8 p.m. with Ed Wilson of Spokane as caller.

Dec. 12, the Westsyde Squares will host a party in the Westbank Community Hall, with Wally Mallach as caller.

Five Initiates For Kinettes

The fourth meeting of the Kelowna Kinetite Club will be held on Monday at 6:30 p.m. at the Capri, with president, Mrs. Ernest Day in the chair.

Final reports will be given on completed projects: fall rummage sale, Knacks and Snacks show, November rally and the fall show.

The highlight of this Christmas dinner meeting will be the initiation of five Kinetites into the club: Mrs. Dennis Keller, Mrs. Dennis Denney, Mrs. Fred Behner, Mrs. Denis D'Archangelo and Mrs. Dave Begg.

In December the Kinetites will be busy doing gift wrapping at the Hudson's Bay; giving a party for the children at Sunnyvale School and assisting the Kinsmen with their Christmas hampers.

Female 'Libs' Protest Articles

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Nine female liberationists tried for seven hours Tuesday to meet Helen Gurley Brown, editor of Cosmopolitan magazine, to demand $15,000 reparations for what they said was exploitation of women as sex objects.

Mrs. Brown did not meet the women, detained in a lobby by 10 men, but sent them a statement saying she was in agreement with all aspects of equality for women.

The women demanded that the magazine end its "sexist" articles and advertisements and devote a complete issue to the nationwide strike for women's equality last Aug. 26 and another planned for Dec. 12. They also wanted the magazine to start a column exploring the future of women's liberation and to deal with everyday issues concerning women, a representative of the women said.

Some of the demonstrators carried children and signs with advertisements and titles of articles from recent issues such as: "This blonde doesn't come cheap," "Can a girl be a virgin in 1970 and still hold her head up?" and "Plain and fancy facts about orgasm."

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD BRIDGES

Family Reunion Highlights 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bridges of 2391 Pandosy St., celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Nov. 27 with a dinner for 22 at the Capri.

A lovely three-tiered wedding cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Eleanor Bridges of Cranbrook and Mrs. Florence Blunden of McLeod, Alta.

Thomas Blunden was the master of ceremonies and the grandchildren, Susan, Cheryl and Steve Guidi read telegrams from the Prime Minister and from Cranbrook and California. Bill Bailey proposed the toast to the honored couple.

Coffee and cake was served at their home after the opening of many gifts. Guests were from Eston, Sask., McLeod, Alta., Nelson, Cranbrook, Vancouver and Winfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Bridges were married at Coeur D'Alene, Idaho and have resided at Cranbrook, Trail and Vancouver. They have three daughters, Shirley of Eston, Sask., Lenore and Rita of Kelowna and three grandchildren. Many friends attended a come and go tea on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Guidi.

Catholic Women's League Members Prepare For Christmas Season

The Catholic Women's League met in the library of St. Joseph's hall on Dec. 2 to prepare for Christmas.

Holy Mass was celebrated by the director, Rev. R. D. Anderson before the largest number of members to attend a meeting in the past few years.

Mrs. G. T. Prior and Mrs. Ed Guenett served the priest and May Conroy read the Epistle.

Mrs. George Wambke made and explained the ceremony of the Advent Wreath which was blessed during the service. At the offertory each member came forward and placed a gift for a mental health patient on the altar before receiving Holy Communion for herself and all living and deceased members of the league. Carols were sung.

As the mass ended, Frances Heron came forward and thanked Rev. Anderson and told the members how much she had enjoyed the celebration and how it had reminded her of the early days when mass was celebrated in an old house in the Ellison district, which was recently moved to the Father Pandosy Mission.

After the serving of dessert and coffee by the hostesses, Mrs. Paul Riedel and Mrs. Ebe Marks, the president, Mrs. Sigmund Thoms took the chair for the business meeting; after which she invited Mrs. George Ottenbrielt to talk on her association with the Fish organization.

The meeting closed with the

'Bare' Details In Black Dresses Shown In Spring Collection

NEW YORK (AP) — Ceil Chapman, whose low cut black dresses have shown some of the world's best figures to advantage, held true to shapely form in her spring collection, slitting her black dresses down the bodice and up from the hem.

The sexy slits stop just before the waist where there is a demure black satin bow belt.

Miss Chapman also bared the shoulders in a green silk dress with jewels along the off-the-shoulder sleeves and at the waist.

But the designer provided a teasing contrast with a high necked shirt waist dress with ruffles from neck to hemline and one pretty brush stroked print dress in shades of mauve and gold had a fluffy petal choker at the top of a very demure bodice.

APPLESAUCE GINGERBREAD

1 package (14 ounces) gingerbread mix
1 cup heavy cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
½ cup canned applesauce
Red or green maraschino cherries

Prepare and bake gingerbread mix as directed on package, baking it in an 8 x 6 x 2-inch pan. Cut into squares.

Place cream, sugar and nutmeg in a bowl. Beat until cream stands in soft peaks. Fold in applesauce. Serve over warm gingerbread. Garnish with maraschino cherries. This makes 9 servings and is a marvelous version of gingerbread.

ANN LANDERS

Teen-Age Epileptic Leads Normal Life

Dear Ann Landers: I am a normal 15-year-old girl. When I say normal I mean I look like a 15-year-old girl. I act like a 15-year-old girl and I have all the desires and dreams of a 15-year-old girl. The only way in which I am different is that I am an epileptic.

I have the Epilepsy Foundation to thank for educating me so that I now live a fear-free life. I have learned from their booklets to hold my head up and to help other epileptics. I have also learned not to be ashamed of my affliction.

It is estimated that one out of every 100 people have epilepsy. This means about two million in the United States. And don't forget—for every epileptic, three or four members of his family are involved in his illness. They should understand the nature of epilepsy and know what to do in case of a seizure.

I have not had a seizure in years, thanks to dilantin, a marvelous drug which has changed the lives of millions. Please, Ann Landers, print the address of the Epilepsy Foundation and urge interested people to write for free literature. They also have films for groups who wish to understand. God bless you for the good you do.—One Of Two Million.

Dear One: Here's the address of the Epilepsy Foundation: 733 15th Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005. And God bless you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Your column a few days ago made me mad. It was about brides who don't get around to writing thank you notes for wedding gifts. You were not one bit sympathetic with the brides who are exhausted from all the showers and trousseau shopping—followed by the honeymoon and setting up housekeeping. A lot of brides these days are pregnant and don't feel well.

I have already received three copies of your column in the mail and I am very annoyed. It so happens I was married 16 months ago and by the time I got settled enough to write thank you notes a year had passed so I decided "better never than late."

You can get back in my good graces by printing my name and address and saying a great big thank you to everyone who sent us wedding gifts.—Cornie Reader.

Dear Corn: If you think I'm going to take you off the hook by printing your thank you note in this column you are off your ever-lovin' rocker.

I don't know where you picked up that "better never than late" jazz. It's a loser. Sit down now and write those long overdue thank-you notes.

Dear Ann Landers: Am I feeling sorry for myself? My husband and I are nearly 60. We have married children and grandchildren. All through our married life he has had affairs with older women—widows or divorced friends of mine. I've gone through the same agonies countless times—tears, humiliation and heartbreak. Then I'd forgive him because I loved him very much. I was certain he had straightened around these past few years and that I had won, but last night the bomb fell. A widow again—another friend of mine. My husband is begging me to forgive him. He says he has finally awakened to his foolishness. Hark! What should I do?—O. City.

Dear O.: What are your options? Would your life be better without him? Only you can make that decision. Good luck.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I retired two years ago and moved to Florida. He is 65 and I am 63. The problem is relatives. His mother and dad, who are in their 80s, lived in on us less than three weeks after we arrived here. They stayed two months. Ten days after they left, my parents (also in their 80s) came down and moved in for four weeks. My mother is hard of hearing and she yelled at my father constantly. She also tried to take over my kitchen, which I resented. My father got into a political argument with my husband every night at the dinner table. He is still mad that Alf Landon was not elected president and insists that somebody "monkeyed with the votes."

We have gone through two winters of company and we can't take any more. Our little home has only one bathroom and 30 minutes is too long to wait. How does one tell parents who are in their 80s to stay home?—Over Guested.

Dear Over: You can't tell anybody to stay home—but you can tell anybody, including your parents, that your home cannot accommodate four people comfortably and they should not plan on staying with you.

THEY MEET AGAIN TONIGHT

The Montreal Canadiens - Boston Bruins rivalry continues tonight in the Montreal Forum, when the two teams meet before a nation-wide television audience. The last meeting between the two clubs ended up in the scene above, with both benches being emptied in the final seconds of the first period. In Boston Gardens Nov. 18, this melee started with Boston's Ken Hodge and Canadiens' Claude Larose exchanging heated words. In other National Hockey League action tonight, New York is at Toronto, Detroit at St. Louis, Vancouver at Pittsburgh, Chicago at Minnesota, and Philadelphia at Los Angeles.

Baseball Meeting Ends In Several Varied Ways

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The dealers have folded their hands at baseball's winter meetings, leaving Boston Red Sox and Baltimore Orioles holding the blue chips and Washington's financially strapped Senators holding the bag.

Trades sending shortstop Luis Aparicio to the Red Sox and pitchers Pat Dobson and Tom Dukes to the world champion Orioles stood out among the 13 deals made at the major league level before Friday's conclusion of the week-long meetings.

While his American League East rivals moved to strengthen themselves for the 1971 season, Washington owner Bob Short, deeply in debt, failed in a bid to unload top talent for the needed cash.

On the administrative side, commissioner Bowie Kuhn said Friday that World Series games might be played for the first time at night next year because of their television appeal.

"We have suggested night World Series games to the network (NBC)," he said, "and they are intrigued by it."

"Last summer's all-star game (played at night) was the biggest prime-time sports show in television history."

PUT KNOWLES ON MARKET
Short, who had picked up controversial stars Denny McLain and Curt Flood in earlier deals, offered to peddle Darold Knowles, one of the league's best relief pitchers, for $500,000. He also is reported to have placed a $1 million price tag on slugger Frank Howard.

But there were no takers, and the financial plight of the Washington franchise continued to concern other AL officials as they headed for home after the meetings ended.

"Short's problem was discussed, informally, not officially," AL president Joe Cronin said Friday. "We'll keep in contact with him, of course, but he hasn't asked the league for any money."

The Red Sox broke up their 1970 infield to land Aparicio, a 36-year-old veteran who batted a career-high .316 for Chicago White Sox last season. They sent second baseman Mike Andrews and young shortstop Luis Alvarado to the White Sox, who acquired nine players in four deals during the meetings.

"Getting Aparicio is going to make Boston that much tougher, but all the other clubs in our division have strengthened themselves, too," said Earl Weaver, whose Orioles added another potential 20-game winner when they got Dobson in a 4-for-2 swap with San Diego Padres.

"California Angels picked up

Dobson was 14-15 for the National League West tailenders last year. The Orioles also received reliever Tom Dukes from the Padres in return for pitchers Tom Phoebus, Fred Beene and Al Severinsen, and shortstop Enzo Hernandez.

Bucks Victims Of High Score

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three high - scoring British Columbia junior hockey league games Friday left the standings unchanged, with the leaders in both Okanagan and coastal divisions merely adding to strong leads.

Penticton Broncos demolished

Chilliwack Bruins 10-4 before 931 fans at Penticton, adding two points to Broncos' lead in the Okanagan division. At Vancouver, coast division leaders Victoria Cougars tied Vancouver 4-4. It left Victoria five points ahead of second - place Vancouver.

The third match saw New Westminster Royals, third in the coast division, easily beat Kelowna Buckaroos 7-1 at New Westminster.

Harry Turk scored three goals and had two assists in the Penticton win, while team - mates Fred Parent had a pair, and Vic Mercedi, Bruce Affleck, Chad Campbell, Dale Turner and Dan Ashman added singles. Larry Davies replied twice for the Bruins, with Rob Hesketh and Ed Lavigne getting one apiece.

Cougars pulled their goalie in the last minute of play in a gamble to even a 4-3 deficit. Ted Plow, who scored a goal earlier in the third period, got the puck in a facelift at the Vancouver end and fired it into Vancouver's net, to stalemate the match.

Gerry Fiest ruined a shutout that New Westminster goalie Terry Richardson had going when he scored for Kelowna.

Rookie Bob Lee To Lead Vikings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Minnesota Vikings, with unproven quarterback Bob Lee making his first start, try for the second time to clinch a National Football League playoff spot today when they meet Chicago Bears.

Lee saw the most action of his three-year career with the Vikings last Sunday in a 20-10 loss to New York Jets after Gary Cuozzo sprained his right ankle in the first half. Lee threw for 126 yards and a touchdown but had four passes intercepted.

The Vikings, 9-2, will clinch first place in the Central Division of the National Conference with a victory over the Bears and earn the right to play host to a semi-final playoff game later this month.

But if the Bears, struggling through a 4-7 season filled with injuries to key players, beat the Vikings, then Minnesota will have to wait until next week—unless Detroit Lions lose to St. Louis Sunday.

The Minnesota-Chicago game this afternoon kicks off a long weekend of 13 NFL games ending when Cleveland Browns play the Oilers in Houston Monday night.

SOME CHANCES SLIM

As the season heads towards the playoffs, 18 of the 26 teams still have a chance—although some are slim—to land in the Super Bowl Jan. 17. All 13 games have a bearing on the divisional playoffs.

Kansas City Chiefs and Oakland Raiders are tied for the Western Division lead in the American Conference; Cincinnati Bengals, Cleveland Browns and Pittsburgh Steelers are deadlocked atop the American Conference's Central Division and it is Los Angeles Rams and San Francisco 49ers in the National Conference's Western Division.

The Public Interest

For the last year, there has been continuing discussion about Council meeting in open public and in committee. In some eyes, the Committee meetings appear as a cloak and dagger operation which conceals the machinations of Council and City Hall from the public. A common-sense view is needed. The public, in my view, has the right to have all information made public except in those cases where the public interest would be damaged or individual rights or reputation damaged. When a development proposal comes forward, it is usual to discuss it and arrange details in Committee, after which the proposal is dealt with in open Council. Immediate referral to open Council could lead to land or other speculation, contrary to the public interest. If a discussion of the affairs of a particular individual is involved, as was recently the case under the hiring policy of the City, it is usual to respect the individual's rights by doing so in Committee unless he requests otherwise. There are other good instances where discussion in Committee are justified. Having stated this, I still believe that a number of subjects discussed in Committee during the past year should have been brought to open Council since neither the public interest or individual rights or reputation would have been damaged.

ALAN MOSS,

Alderman.

Flyers Improve Position With 4-0 Seal Shutout

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Philadelphia Flyers spent most of last season fighting for second place in the National Hockey League's West Division, burned themselves out and dropped right out of the playoff picture by losing their last six games of the schedule.

This year the Flyers have been hard-pressed much of the season to keep abreast of the pacesetters but their position improved Friday night as they did all their scoring in the third period en route to a 4-0 shutout of California Golden Seals.

It was only the second road win of the season for the fourth-place Flyers who moved to within one point of Minnesota North Stars and five points ahead of fifth-place Pittsburgh Penguins.

Philadelphia's Bernie Parent and Gary Smith of California were locked in a goaltenders' duel until the last period.

GOAL BREAKS TIE

Serge Bernier's 10th goal of the season at 7:14 of the final period broke the ice and the Flyers had it their own way until the end of the game.

They added three more goals in the next eight minutes and directed 12 shots at Smith in the third period while limiting California skaters to three and making it that much easier for Parent to register his second shutout of the season before 4,080 fans.

Boston Bruins are at Montreal against the Canadiens tonight while Toronto Maple Leafs entertain New York Rangers. Detroit Red Wings will be without injured defenceman Dale Rolfe when they go against the Blues in St. Louis, Vancouver Canucks are at Pittsburgh Penguins, Chicago Black Hawks visit Minnesota North Stars and Philadelphia moves on to Los Angeles against the Kings.

Sunday night the Leafs are in Chicago, Vancouver at New York, Pittsburgh at Boston, St. Louis at Detroit and Buffalo Sabres are at home to Minnesota.

Ali's Lawyers Winding Up Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — While Muhammad Ali is winding up his training for a return to Madison Square Garden in New York, his lawyers are preparing for a court battle which could be his last big fight for a while.

It has been nearly 3½ years since Ali, born Cassius Clay, was convicted of refusing induction into the armed services. The long struggle that followed has kept him out of jail so far, but until last October it had kept him out of the boxing ring as well.

Ali continues his return to boxing Monday night in the Garden against Oscar Bonavena.

His legal fight is back before the U.S. Supreme Court, which is deciding whether to hear yet another appeal.

Lawyers on both sides of the case deny any charges that the system of judicial reckoning has been so soft on Ali, who gave up his heavyweight boxing crown rather than fight with a gun.

"There sure as hell has been no collusion on our part," retorted U.S. Attorney Anthony Farris of Houston, Ali's chief prosecutor.

LENGTHY PROCESS The full appellate process runs for years for any defendant who can afford to pursue

It Happens Every Year

CORAL SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — They're starting to bury Arnold Palmer — again.

"It happens this time every year," Palmer said Friday. "But I have no thought of quitting."

"I still enjoy playing. I will continue to play. And I'll win again, too."

Palmer, who has yet to win an individual title this year, made the tight-lipped comment after taking a disappointing 70 in the second round of the $125,000 Coral Springs open golf tournament. He just made the cut for the final two rounds with a 36-hole total of 142, par for the Coral Springs Country Club course.

While Palmer continued to have his troubles, a couple of the more obscure young players on the pro tour leaped into dominant positions.

MATCHES COURSE RECORD Jerry McGee, 27, stormed into a two-stroke lead going into today's third round with a 65 for 133. And gangling Bill Garrett matched the course record at 64 and moved into a share of second.

He was tied at 135 with Lee Trevino, Gardner Dickinson and Jack Montgomery. All had second round 67s. J. C. Snead, with another 67, and Bob Goalby, winner of last week's Heritage Classic who had a 65, followed at 136.

New Coach Tastes Defeat Early As Voyageurs Lose Easily 6-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It didn't take long for Floyd Curry to taste defeat as an American Hockey League coach.

Basketball On Upswing

The last 25 years of the B.C. High School Boys' Basketball Association has been one of continual growth—growth from an invitational four-team tournament held in New Westminster to an association with some 160 member schools competing for 16 berths in the double A tournament.

Each year has seen progress and it is hoped that this coming high school basketball season will be no exception. For example—due to the ever-increasing numbers of spectators who take in the annual tournament, the association this year will move into the much more spacious Pacific Coliseum in Vancouver for all four days of the tournament, March 24, 25, 26, and 27.

For the first time the B.C. boys are conducting a cross-province poll of the top 10 high school basketball teams. This has and will continue to be accomplished by polling 16 knowledgeable high school basketball authorities in the province.

The scores of league, exhibitions, and cross-sectional games will be taken into consideration by these 16 men and they will be polled every two weeks.

The following are the Top 10 high school basketball teams in B.C. as of Wednesday:

- 1.—MEI "Eagles", Clearbrook
- 2.—North Delta "Huskies"
- 3.—Abbotsford "Panthers"
- 4.—Prince Rupert "Rainmakers"
- 5.—North Surrey "Spartans"
- 6.—Victoria "Totems"
- 7.—Vancouver College "Fighting Irish"
- 8.—New Westminster "Hyacks"
- 9.—Centennial "Centauris", Coquitlam
- 10.—Windermere "Warriors", Vancouver.

Curry, who replaced Ron Caron as coach of Montreal Voyageurs Thursday, saw Rochester Americans score four unanswered third-period goals to crush the Voyageurs 6-2.

In other games, Providence Reds edged Cleveland Barons 6-5, Quebec Aces shut out Hershey Bears 4-0 and Springfield Kings blanked Baltimore Clippers 8-0.

At Montreal, the Americans snapped a 2-2 third-period tie on goals by Duke Harris, Don Blackburn, Bob Cook and Jack Stanfield. Ralph Stewart and Doug Dunville rounded out the Rochester scoring.

GOAL BREAKS TIE

At Providence, Alton White, one of only two Negroes playing professional hockey, flipped in a five-footer about midway through the last period, giving the Reds the win. White's goal came just 29 seconds after Cleveland's John Goffon had tied the score at 5-5.

Brian Cadie, Howie Menard, Ron Garwa and Bobby Leduc scored the other Providence goals. Marshall Johnston, Grant Erickson, Norm Beudin and Bill Orban replied for Cleveland.

At Springfield, the Kings fired 52 shots at Andy Brown in the Baltimore nets. Dough Volmar, with two goals, led the onslaught. Randy Miller, Roger Cote, Don Westbrook, Butch Goring, Gary Dineen and Real Lemieux counted the others.

Bruce Landon earned the shutout in the Springfield nets, blocking 36 shots.

Michel Belhumeur kicked out 22 shots for register the shutout at Quebec.

Dick Sarrazin, Rene Drolet, Dennis Giamini and Bob Currier scored for the Aces who led 2-0 at the end of the first period and 3-0 after 40 minutes.

Providence travels to Baltimore tonight. Montreal visits Cleveland and Springfield plays host to Hershey.

Hershey goes to Providence Sunday and Rochester meets the Aces at Quebec.

CITY OF KELOWNA NOTICE TO RATEPAYERS

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that the "City of Kelowna Zoning By-Law, 1961, No. 2293" being By-Law No. 2293 of the City of Kelowna is now in process of revision, more particularly as follows:

- To amend Section 4 of the City's Zoning By-Law by adding the following as Sub-section 2 and by re-designating the present sub-section 2 as sub-section 3.

"4.2 DEVELOPMENT AREAS In addition to the zones designated in Section 4.1, areas within these zones may be designated as Development Areas and defined on the Official Zoning Map of the City of Kelowna."

By adding the foregoing Section to the City's Zoning By-Law, the Council, after a Public Hearing on the application of an owner of land within the development area, may, by the issuance of a development permit, waive the provisions of the City's Zoning By-Law and Sub-division By-Law and substitute therefor other terms and conditions which shall have the effect of the said Zoning and Sub-division By-Laws.

- To rezone Lot 2, Block 3, Plan 462; Lot 2, Plan 3377; and Lots 1 and 2, Plan 4813 from their present zone of M-1 (City Centre Visitor Oriented) to the R-3 (Multi-Family Residential) zone.

Three of these four vacant parcels of land are located on the South side of Harvey Avenue between the Parkway Gulf Service Station at 289 Harvey Avenue and the Parkway Motel at 245 Harvey Avenue. The fourth parcel of land is a residential home at 1736 Water Street. All four parcels of land were rezoned in 1967 to permit the development of a 77 unit motel and restaurant. This development did not proceed and it is desirable to regulate the use of this land.

- To designate Lots 1 and 2 of Plan 3731 as a "development area" for the establishment of a condominium containing a maximum of eight two-bedroom dwelling units, the rehabilitation of the existing dwelling, the creation of two additional single family dwelling sites and the dedication of a park site.

These two parcels of land, 1024, 1034 and 1044 Glenmore Drive are located on the west side of Glenmore Drive immediately South of the Glenmore Store at Glenmore Drive and Mountain Avenue. Part of Lot 1 of Plan 3731 fronts on Calmels Crescent.

- To designate Lot 1, Plan 20556 as a "development area" to permit the redevelopment of the present store located at the South-east corner of Sutherland Avenue and Pandosy Street.

This development permit will allow Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Lloyd, 1953 Pandosy Street to redevelop their present store located at the South-east corner of Pandosy Street and Sutherland Avenue in accordance with the C-2 (Community Commercial-Low Rise) zone regulations with a zero (0) foot setback on Sutherland Avenue.

Details of the proposed By-Law may be seen at the office of the City Clerk, Kelowna (Hall, 1435 Water Street, Kelowna, B.C., Monday to Friday, November 30th, 1970 to December 14th, 1970, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon.

The Municipal Council will meet in special session to hear representations of interested persons at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, December 14th, 1970, in the Council Chamber, Kelowna City Hall, 1435 Water Street, Kelowna, B.C.

JAMES HUDSON City Clerk. Kelowna, B.C. November 30th, 1970.

DEPARTMENT OF LANDS, FORESTS, AND WATER RESOURCES

AUCTION SALE

TIMBER SALE

LICENCE A02684

There will be offered for sale at public auction in the office of the District Forester, Kamloops, British Columbia, at 10:30 a.m. on the 18th day of December, 1970, the Licence A02684, to authorize the harvesting of not more than 600,000 cubic feet of timber each year for a four (4) year period.

Cutting permits to be issued under authority of this licence will authorize cutting of Lodgepole Pine trees on an area located on 3 blocks at the north end of Hydraulic Lake, south and west of Hydraulic Creek, Osoyoys Division of Yale Land District, within the Okanagan Public Sustained Yield Unit, in accordance with a development plan to be submitted by the successful tenderer.

Bids will only be accepted from those persons who are prepared to construct in British Columbia and maintain a wood processing plant for the manufacture of posts and poles from Lodgepole Pine trees 3.1 inch to 7.0 inch d.b.h. measured outside bark at a point four and one-half (4 1/2) feet from the ground.

Provided that anyone qualified to bid but unable to attend the auction in person may submit a sealed tender, to be opened at the hour of auction and treated as one bid.

Further particulars may be obtained from the Deputy Minister of Forests, Victoria, British Columbia, the District Forester, Kamloops, British Columbia or the Forest Ranger at Kelowna, British Columbia.

How To Tell Son He Can't Eat Egg

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How can I tell when my son can eat an egg? When he was four months old I gave him an egg and he swelled up and had convulsions and I had to call a doctor. He said he was allergic to eggs and milk.

When he was four years old, I gave him a scrambled egg. He started to make faces and act funny, and he threw it up, not even digested.

Now he is 15 and wants to eat an egg. He can eat it in other foods, but I haven't given him an egg since he was four. I am petrified at the thought!

How will he ever know if he can eat an egg? He was on soybean milk for two years, but drinks plenty of white milk now.

Mrs. D. R. H. Allergy is such a frequent problem — is not easy to discuss in generalities because one case will vary so much from another. Taking just food allergies, as in your son's case, sometimes a child will outgrow an allergy and sometimes he won't. Your son, after all, has outgrown his milk allergy.

His egg allergy, however, appears to have been a more violent one. You say he can now tolerate egg in other foods (as in baked goods, among others, I presume). Well, that's fine. He is making some progress. Obviously he can eat a certain amount of egg, if he doesn't get too much of it.

But here's a point too keep in mind: A difference of exposure makes a difference. Sometimes one can eat a little of some food or other without difficulty. But at a lot? Be careful! Eating a lot may go past the limit of tolerance, and back comes the allergy.

It's natural, I suspect, for your boy to be curious about eggs after having to avoid them for so long—but don't make the mistake of giving him too much.

For illustration, don't start or out by giving him a whole egg. Let him try just a little bit of the egg white. If he has an allergic response, you have the answer. He'd better stay away from eggs henceforth. But if there is no sign of allergic response, increase the amount, very slowly, from time to time. Caution is the watchword. Do it gradually. Because if he still has a strong allergy to egg, getting too much of it at once may bring the allergy back in full force, and destroy the tolerance that he has built up.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am an alcoholic. I drink about one quart per day. I am aware this cannot continue without drastic results. Is there help through hypnosis that could benefit my condition? Please, I do not wish to go to Alcoholics Anonymous for help.—R.F.

Well, you admit that you have a problem. That's half the battle. Now the other half of your battle is hoping to find some easy way for somebody else—such as a hypnotist—to do the cure for you.

Why don't you want to go to AA? It's a wonderful outfit for anyone who really wants to quit the booze. There are also alcoholism clinics in many cities, also very fine and effective.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When one has a colostomy performed, is it because of cancer of the bowel or intestines? The family is so secretive about it.—Mrs. A.A.N.

It is one reason for a colostomy, but not the only one. Sometimes it is necessary in treating stubborn colitis. And there can be other reasons.

Whenever this occurs, declarer has a tremendous obligation to double-check his prospects to see whether or not it is possible for the opponents' cards to be so divided that the contract can be made. The possibility may seem remote, but, if it exists, declarer must assume a favorable division of the cards and proceed on that basis. To do anything else would be equivalent to giving up.

For example, take this deal where apparently South must lose two diamonds and go down one. But actually, South has an excellent chance for the slam if he simply plays his cards right. West's two diamond overall should guide him to the proper line of play.

Declarer ruffs the club lead and cashes the ace of trumps, both defenders following suit. At this point there is a world of information available to South. He knows that East started with a singleton heart and—in view of West's overcall—at most a singleton diamond.

It does not require much imagination to realize that East must therefore have lots of spades and clubs among his souvenirs—and, more especially, that East is likely to have more spades than West. If this assumption proves to be correct, the slam is ice cold.

Accordingly, South implements this probability by cashing the A-K of spades, ruffing a spade, cashing the ace of diamonds, and ruffing the queen of clubs.

The stage is now all set for the endplay. South leads the nine of spades, but instead of ruffing it, he discards a diamond from dummy. East wins with the queen and is forced to return a club, permitting South to ruff as he discards dummy's last diamond to bring home the slam.

'Bible Belt' Raps Hoover

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. congressman from the conservative Baptist "Bible belt" of the South has criticized FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover for allegations about two draft-card burning Roman Catholic priests.

What troubles Representative William Anderson, Tennessee Democrat, is that Hoover said before a Senate subcommittee—where he is safe from libel suits—that Phillip and Daniel Berrigan led a group that plotted to kidnap a federal official and sabotage Washington power lines.

But the two priests, now in federal prison for destroying draft records, have not been charged with any such crime and Attorney-General John Mitchell won't say if he will seek indictments.

Anderson sent a letter this week to Hoover suggesting—diplomatically—that he put up or shut up.

If the FBI evidence, an indictment should be sought, the letter said. But if there is nothing to Hoover's charges, "then certainly we should expect an explanation, if not an outright retraction."

Scripture—I John 3:11-24

CONCERN FOR OTHERS

We cannot obey God and remain devoid of love for our fellowmen for we have been directly commanded to love one another.—I John 3:11-15.

God demonstrated His love for us through His Son; our love for Him must manifest itself in love for others.—I John 3:16-17.

If we love our brothers in word, deed and truth, God will answer our prayers for we are keeping His commandment.—I John 3:18-22.

Proof of our inner bond with God is shown in our love and concern for others.—I John 3:23-24.

'New Church' Will Differ Widely From Its Parents

TORONTO (CP) — The outline of what churchmen term "the new manifestation of the Church"—not a "new church"—emerged this week following a conference of Protestant theologians seeking to reconcile differences on questions of faith, order and liturgy.

It would be a church considerably changed from its parents. It would be born, as expressed in a proposed Covenant of Union, in the hope that "something new and better than anything we have known separately will begin to emerge in our common worship."

The covenant would be the basic founding document of a union of the Anglican Church of Canada, the United Church of Canada, the dominant non-Roman Catholic denominations in Canada, and a small, third group of sharply differing views, the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

The covenant is the core of a preliminary draft of a proposed Plan of Union adopted Friday night by the general commission on union. It will go before the courts of the involved churches in January for study—not for revision—and to the memberships at large for reaction. Under present plans of step-by-step consideration, a final decision cannot come before 1974.

RECOGNIZE FEAR

Taking cognizance of feelings of unease and fear of change, widespread among members of both the major churches since talks on union began in 1963, the draft of the covenant says: "Congregations may employ in their worship the familiar words of the Book of Common Prayer of the Anglican Church of Canada, Christian Worship of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) or the service book of the United Church of Canada."

"They may draw upon the heritage of all branches of the church."

The general commission was formed after the Principles of Union were adopted in 1965 by the Anglicans and the United Church—acceptance of the idea of organic union. Three years in the drafting, the preliminary draft of the proposed plan consists at present of more than 40,000 words of reports by special commissions on such points as a declaration of faith and of doctrine. The covenant itself is about 7,500 words in length.

Nineteen names offered by members were put on a preferential ballot—one was "Soul Probe"—with the commission directed to choose as a suggestion one of the first five. It was decided Tuesday night as the meeting closed, a day ahead of schedule, to submit, without a recommendation, five names to the courts of the churches.

FIVE LISTED

In order of members' preference, with the number of points each obtained in the vote shown in parenthesis, they are:

—Church of Christ in Canada (71).

—The Church of Christ in Canada (65).

—United Christian Church in Canada (65).

—The United Episcopal Church in Canada (59).

—United Episcopal Church of Christ in Canada (57).

Members of the drafting committee urged acceptance of a name that would fit easily into a newspaper headline, such as CCC.

The prolonged negotiations on church union affect the spiritual well-being of more than six million Canadians—the number who declared Anglican or United Church affiliation in the 1961 census when individuals were required to state the church they attended.

Figures of actual membership and of adherents vary. Those generally accepted are 2,500,000 for the Anglican Church and 2,433,000 for the United Church. Difficult questions of theology, important to ordained churchmen but of little interest to the laity as a whole, were resolved, usually with compromise.

AMONG LIST

Among them was baptism of infants. For this ceremonial a "laying on of hands"—one member asked sarcastically, "one or both?"—was proposed. It finally was agreed that infants may be baptized, this to be followed in later years with a service of confirmation.

Ceremony now prevailing in all churches will be continued. The Disciples believe only in adult baptism, by immersion.

So does the Baptist Church which announced to the meeting its final decision that differences in belief and doctrine were so deep it could not join the proposed union.

On faith, the Old and New Testaments are accepted as basic. This was a major concession on the part of the Disciples who base their belief only on the New Testament.

A group of 5,000 members, they had their Canadian origins at a meeting in the early 1800s of "Scotch Baptists"—the Disciples avoid saying "Scottish Baptists"—near Charlottetown. They now have 10 congregations in the Maritimes, 30 in Ontario and seven in the West.

OPEN TO WOMEN

A major decision was that in the new church ordained ministries will be open to both men and women.

"Presbyters" will replace "ministers" and "priests." Deacons, replacing the word "elder," will be ordained.

For the official in charge of finances and legal matters, "legal adviser," as proposed, was changed to "chancellor."

Crucifixion 'Just Recent'

TORONTO (CP) — In terms of astral time, the Crucifixion occurred "only a few hours ago," a retired Anglican bishop said Tuesday, and the Christian church is only in its dawning.

Rt. Rev. S. C. Steer, former bishop of Saskatoon, now living in retirement in Victoria, said in an interview there "still is far more to be drawn from the Christian faith than we have yet fully realized."

One of the Anglican representatives on the general commission on church union, Bishop Steer—who once said that the most boring part about religion is going to church—said that in the current discussions on church union what is sought is not a blending of the traditions of the three involved churches but a new approach to the future.

Pope Ends 28,000-Mile Trip To Non-Christian Far East

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul returned without fanfare to his Vatican apartment before dawn today, ending his 10-day 28,000-mile, ecumenical trip to the largely non-Christian Far East.

The pontiff stood in his open limousine in a whipping wind and almost freezing temperatures and waved to a small crowd that greeted him at Rome airport. Vatican prelates and minor Italian government officials also were on hand, but there was no official ceremony.

As his auto rolled into St. Peter's Square, about 200 persons, including many nuns, held candles and torches and shouted, "Viva il Papa!"—the same wish for long life that Pope Paul heard in most of the eight stops he made in Asia, the Pacific and Australia.

The Pope smiled happily, appearing spry and relatively refreshed.

There had been concern about Pope Paul's health before he began the ninth journey in his 7½ years as spiritual leader of the world's 580 million Roman Catholics.

During the first few days—which included an assassination attempt at the Manila airport by a knife-wielding man—the strain on the 73-year-old Pope appeared taxing. But observers said he seemed more rested on subsequent stops—the Samoa Islands, Australia, Indonesia, Hong Kong and Ceylon.

WORD IS PEACE

During the Pope's three-hour stay in Colombo, Ceylon, Friday, before beginning the 1,000-mile trip to Rome, he told hundreds of thousands at a mass beside the airport: "My final word is peace."

He had intoned a similar message to the governments of South Vietnam, North Vietnam and Cambodia as his chartered Alitalia DC-8 flew overhead en route to Ceylon from Hong Kong.

His airborne call for a "just peace" in Indochina was a repetition of an appeal he made earlier in the Philippines.

His stop in Hong Kong was considered major, although it was one of the shortest. In a stadium mass attended by 40,000, the pontiff said: "Christ is a teacher, a shepherd and a loving Redeemer for China, too."

He was speaking to the 750 million Chinese in Communist China and the 14 million on Formosa, Nationalist China.
